LOYALIST FORCE ANNIHILATED IN LALINEA BATTLE

Gibraltar, July 27.

Severe fighting has been reported near Gibraltar. It is indicated that a Government force, several hundreds strong, has been completely annihilated during this afternoon's engagement near Lalinea. The rebels are believed to have lost sixty killed.

Lalinea reports that of the 300 Government supporters killed, most were Communists. Many prisoners were executed.

The Spanish loyal fleet is rushing from Tangier to Estepona to check General Franco's advance in the southern fighting sector.—Reuter Bulletin Special.

Gibraltar, July 27.

It is estimated that the casualties in a battle near Estepona are over 600 dead, including 400 Government fighters, and 1,200 wounded.—Reuter.

RECENTLY SURRENDERED

London, July 27.

The Spanish Government force which was annihilated near Lalinea consisted of loyal Carabineers and armed workers, who recently surrendered to the rebels, but who to-day suddenly appeared marching from San Roque towards Lalinea, apparently intending to attack the Moroccan forces stationed there.

Rebel troops were rushed from Algeciras and they wiped out the Government force in a two-hour hand to hand struggle.

Reserves By Air

The rebel Commander-in-Chief, General Franco, is rushing troops from Ceuta to Algeciras in big sea planes, each carrying a score of men, with a view to beating back the Government forces at Malaga.

There has been heavy fighting at Estepona also, where there have been at least 300 casualties, and at Gadiro, where the vanguard of the main rebel force, numbering 800 men, is reported to have overwhelmed a force of workers and loyal militia, a hundred of whom are said to have been slain, and many wounded.

Government forces have set fire to a pine woods near Tetapona in order to hold up the advance of the Moroccan troops.

It is understood that twenty Communist prisoners in the barracks at Lalinea were executed last night and twenty more this morning. One hundred remain.

Madrid's Claims

Meanwhile, Madrid reports that Government troops are driving back the left wing of the rebel forces north of Madrid, towards Segovia, and are preparing to storm the heights where the rebels' main body of 800 men is holding out.

British and other Embassies have left San Sebastian, evacuating this evening, on the advice of the Government. The British Embassy has gone to Zarauz, a small town near San Sebastian. The American, Italian and Argentine Embassies and the Norwegian and Czechoslovakian Legations are going to Irun, and the French Embassy to Fontarabie.—Reuter Special.

Push Towards Malaga

Gibraltar, July 27.

Moroccan rebel troops, en route to Malaga, defeated a loyalist force, this morning in a battle near San Roque, in which it is reported 200 loyalists were killed, and many wounded.

The loyalists retreated into the mountains, but reappeared in mid-afternoon and machine-gunned the advancing rebels.

Thereupon the Moroccans engaged the loyalists in a terrific hand-to-hand fight, the outcome of which is still in doubt.—United Press.

Warship Revolts

"A state of high treason" aboard the Spanish cruiser Almirante Cervantes, was revealed by the Government to-day in a decree which orders (Continued on Page 5.)

BRITISH WARSHIP FIRED ON WHILE EMBARKING REFUGEES LOYALISTS APOLOGISE

Gibraltar, July 27.

The British destroyer Basilisk, which arrived here Sunday, reported that she was fired on while embarking twenty-eight British and twelve other refugees at Almeria.

Loyalist officers boarded the vessel later and apologised.

EVACUATION ORDERED

Madrid, July 27.

Coincident with the Government's claims of sweeping successes, Washington has instructed the Embassy to evacuate over 100 Americans, on their own responsibility and risk, providing adequate transportation is furnished.—United Press.

AMERICANS SAFE

Washington, July 27.

The Madrid Embassy has advised the State Department that it has learned indirectly that the party of American university students, headed by Mr. Monica Owen, is safe at La Granja.

It is believed that connection with Valencia will be restored shortly.

Simultaneously the Consulate at Vigo has advised that twenty-three Americans and Cubans have been evacuated in a British cruiser. In Vigo apprehension is increasing hourly, and the military has summoned the conscript classes of 1926 to 1936.

It is feared that anarchy and mob rule will follow in the event of the downfall of the military authorities.

The U.S.S. Quincy is reported to be investigating conditions in Madrid, prior to proceeding to Alicante and Valencia.

It is learned that the Diplomatic Corps has convened in Madrid, and named a committee of seven to arrange for the evacuation of foreigners. The committee has requested a special train, with the necessary protection, and it is believed this will be forthcoming in two or three days.—United Press.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY MEETING BRITISH DELEGATES CHOSEN

London, July 27.

In the House of Commons at question-time to-day, the Foreign Secretary announced that the United Kingdom delegation to the League Assembly meeting will be as follows: The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden; the Lord Privy Seal, Lord Halifax; the Dominions Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald; assisted by the Financial Secretary to the Treasury, Mr. W. S. Morrison; the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, Mr. G. Shakespear; the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Lord Cranborne; Sir William Malkin, of the Foreign Office; Miss Marjorie Graves, M.P.; and Lord Astor.—British Wireless.

SPANISH POLICE "BREAK" STRIKE

BALDWIN FOREGOES
FRENCH HOLIDAY

TAKING NO CHANCES

London, July 27.

Following the King's cancellation of his holiday in France, it was announced to-day that Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, had abandoned his plan to go to Aix-les-Bains on Thursday for a short vacation. He will remain in England. The coincidence in His Majesty's and the Prime Minister's change of plans, together with Mr. Anthony Eden's emphasis on the complexity of the international situation, led to speculation in Parliamentary circles to-day.

There is a general disposition to connect the change in Mr. Baldwin's plans with the serious tone of Mr. Eden's speech in the Foreign Affairs debate in the House of Commons, and particularly his statement that he had spoken of the Government when he had spoken of the Rhineland, the Dardanelles, the Mediterranean and other serious problems.

It is generally felt that no risks will be taken in any direction during the next few months.—Reuter.

CONSIDERATION FOR FRANCE

London, July 27.

It was announced from Buckingham Palace to-day that the King has cancelled his arrangements for a holiday on the French Riviera. In the absence of an official statement the newspapers agree in ascribing His Majesty's decision to consideration for the French authorities at a time when their normal responsibilities are much increased by the provision for refugees from the civil conflict across the border in Spain.

It is understood that the matter was the subject of conversation between the King and the French President when they met on Sunday in connection with the ceremony at Vimy, and there was a reference to the alteration of His Majesty's plans in a telegram which he addressed to President Lohrman thanking the latter for his participation in ceremony. The King said: "Though to my great regret I am obliged to modify my plans for the immediate future, I wish to assure you of the pleasure with which I contemplate further visits to your hospitable country."—British Wireless.

BROWNS SURPRISE YANKES

DEFEATED

New York, July 27.

There was only one game in the National League to-day, in which Pittsburgh Pirates lost further ground, going down before the Brooklyn Dodgers, six to three. The Cincinnati Reds, who had been leading the league, were postponed owing to threatening weather.

St. Louis and Boston were not scheduled to play.

Braddock Will Meet German Before Sept. 30

New York, July 27.

The Madison Square Garden and Twentieth Century Club have signed contracts for the joint promotion of a Braddock-Schmeling world heavyweight title bout in the Garden's Long Island Bowl.

The fight will be held between September 21 and 30.

Both the contracting parties had claims on the time of the champion, Braddock, when he next fought to defend his title and legal troubles threatened. Now they have sunk their differences, preferring to split the profits.—United Press.

ARABS' REPLY TO CHALLENGE

WITH FLAMING REVOLVERS

Jerusalem, July 27.

Two privates of the Cheshire Regiment were wounded near Tulkarm to-day.

They challenged three Arabs loitering on the railway, and the latter whipped out revolvers and opened fire.

On the occasion of the hundredth day of the Arab strike, the Strike Committee issued a proclamation declaring:

"The day of victory is fast approaching."

The pipe-line from Iraq was damaged for the third time by Arab vandals, and supplies to Haifa are again held up to-day.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

St. Louis Browns are surprising everyone by their recently surprising turn of form. They are upsetting the best teams of the League. To-day, the dependable bat of Solters gave the Browns a homer at a crucial period and the club passed the doctored Boston Red Sox with a seven to five total at the finish. Each had seven hits, but Boston had three errors.

Detroit Tigers finally stepped into the winning line and beat the League leaders, New York Yankees, nine to one. "Schoolboy" Rowe held New York to five hits, one of them a home run by Crouse, but that was the only tally. And as if in a mood requiring vengeance, Rowe whacked a homer on his own account, a little later, Detroit had two of the three errors.

Philadelphia scored fifteen runs on twenty-five hits when playing at home against Chicago White Sox. Chicago hit heavily, also, rapping fifteen times for safeties, but only bringing eight of the runners home. Chicago had the only error.

Washington and Cleveland had to rest because of wet grounds.—Reuter.

London, July 27.

Speaking in the debate on Foreign Office estimates to-day, the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, told the House of Commons that ever since the reoccupation of the Rhineland by German troops, the British Government has striven to start negotiations to restore the situation.

Respecting the brief meeting of the three Locarno signatories, France, Belgium, and Britain, in London, Mr. Eden said this showed the Government's constructive objective had been realised. But he pointed out that this meeting was only a preliminary stage and that much diplomatic work would be necessary before a full, five-power meeting could take place.

The Government regarded the results of the Montreux Conference, which gave Turkey the right to rearm the Dardanelles, as extremely satisfactory. It had shown that more could be gained by legal methods in treaty revision than by repudiation.

Mr. Eden stated that Italy in the middle of the present month had approached Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey and assured these Governments that Italy was not contemplating aggressive action. Italy considered the situation a chapter closed and looked forward to a new policy of co-operation with all nations, said the Foreign Secretary.

"I am therefore glad to declare that in the view of His Majesty's Government there is no further need for the continuation of the mutual assistance assurances in the Mediterranean," said Mr. Eden.

Reform Of League

With regard to the reform of the League of Nations, Mr. Eden emphasised that the Government's objective was to widen and strengthen the basis of international collaboration, but he declined to make a detailed statement, which, he said, would only prejudice the September meeting of the League.

He indicated again the Government's willingness to discuss at an international conference the question of giving foreign countries freer access to raw materials from British mandated territories and colonies.

Transfer Question

Turning to the question of the transfer of mandated territories, the Foreign Secretary declared that the question affected all mandatory powers.

The Government had not consulted any of these in this matter, but as far as the Government was concerned the question would inevitably raise grave difficulties of a moral, political and legal nature, to which they had been unable to find any solution.

The Government hoped, he said, that with no more international questions unresolved there would be no desire in any quarter to introduce further causes for serious differences between nations.

Nanking Embassy

Replying to Mr. Robert Rankin, Mr. Eden said it was unlikely to state when it would be possible to move the embassy to Nanking, as it must depend upon the construction of the necessary premises.

Up to now a site for the Embassy has not been definitely acquired, though His Majesty's Charge d'Affaires was negotiating with the Chinese Government in this connection.

Abandonment of the present Embassy in Peking was not contemplated, as important British interests in North China rendered its retention desirable.

A Liberal amendment to reduce the Foreign Office vote was defeated by 200 to 143, and thereafter the Foreign Office vote was carried, 313 to 138.—Reuter.

CAMPAGNING FOR PEACE

Mr. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, who, in a House of Commons speech outlining British foreign policy, stated that the Government aim was reconciliation of the nations of Europe.

Britain Won't Supply Arms

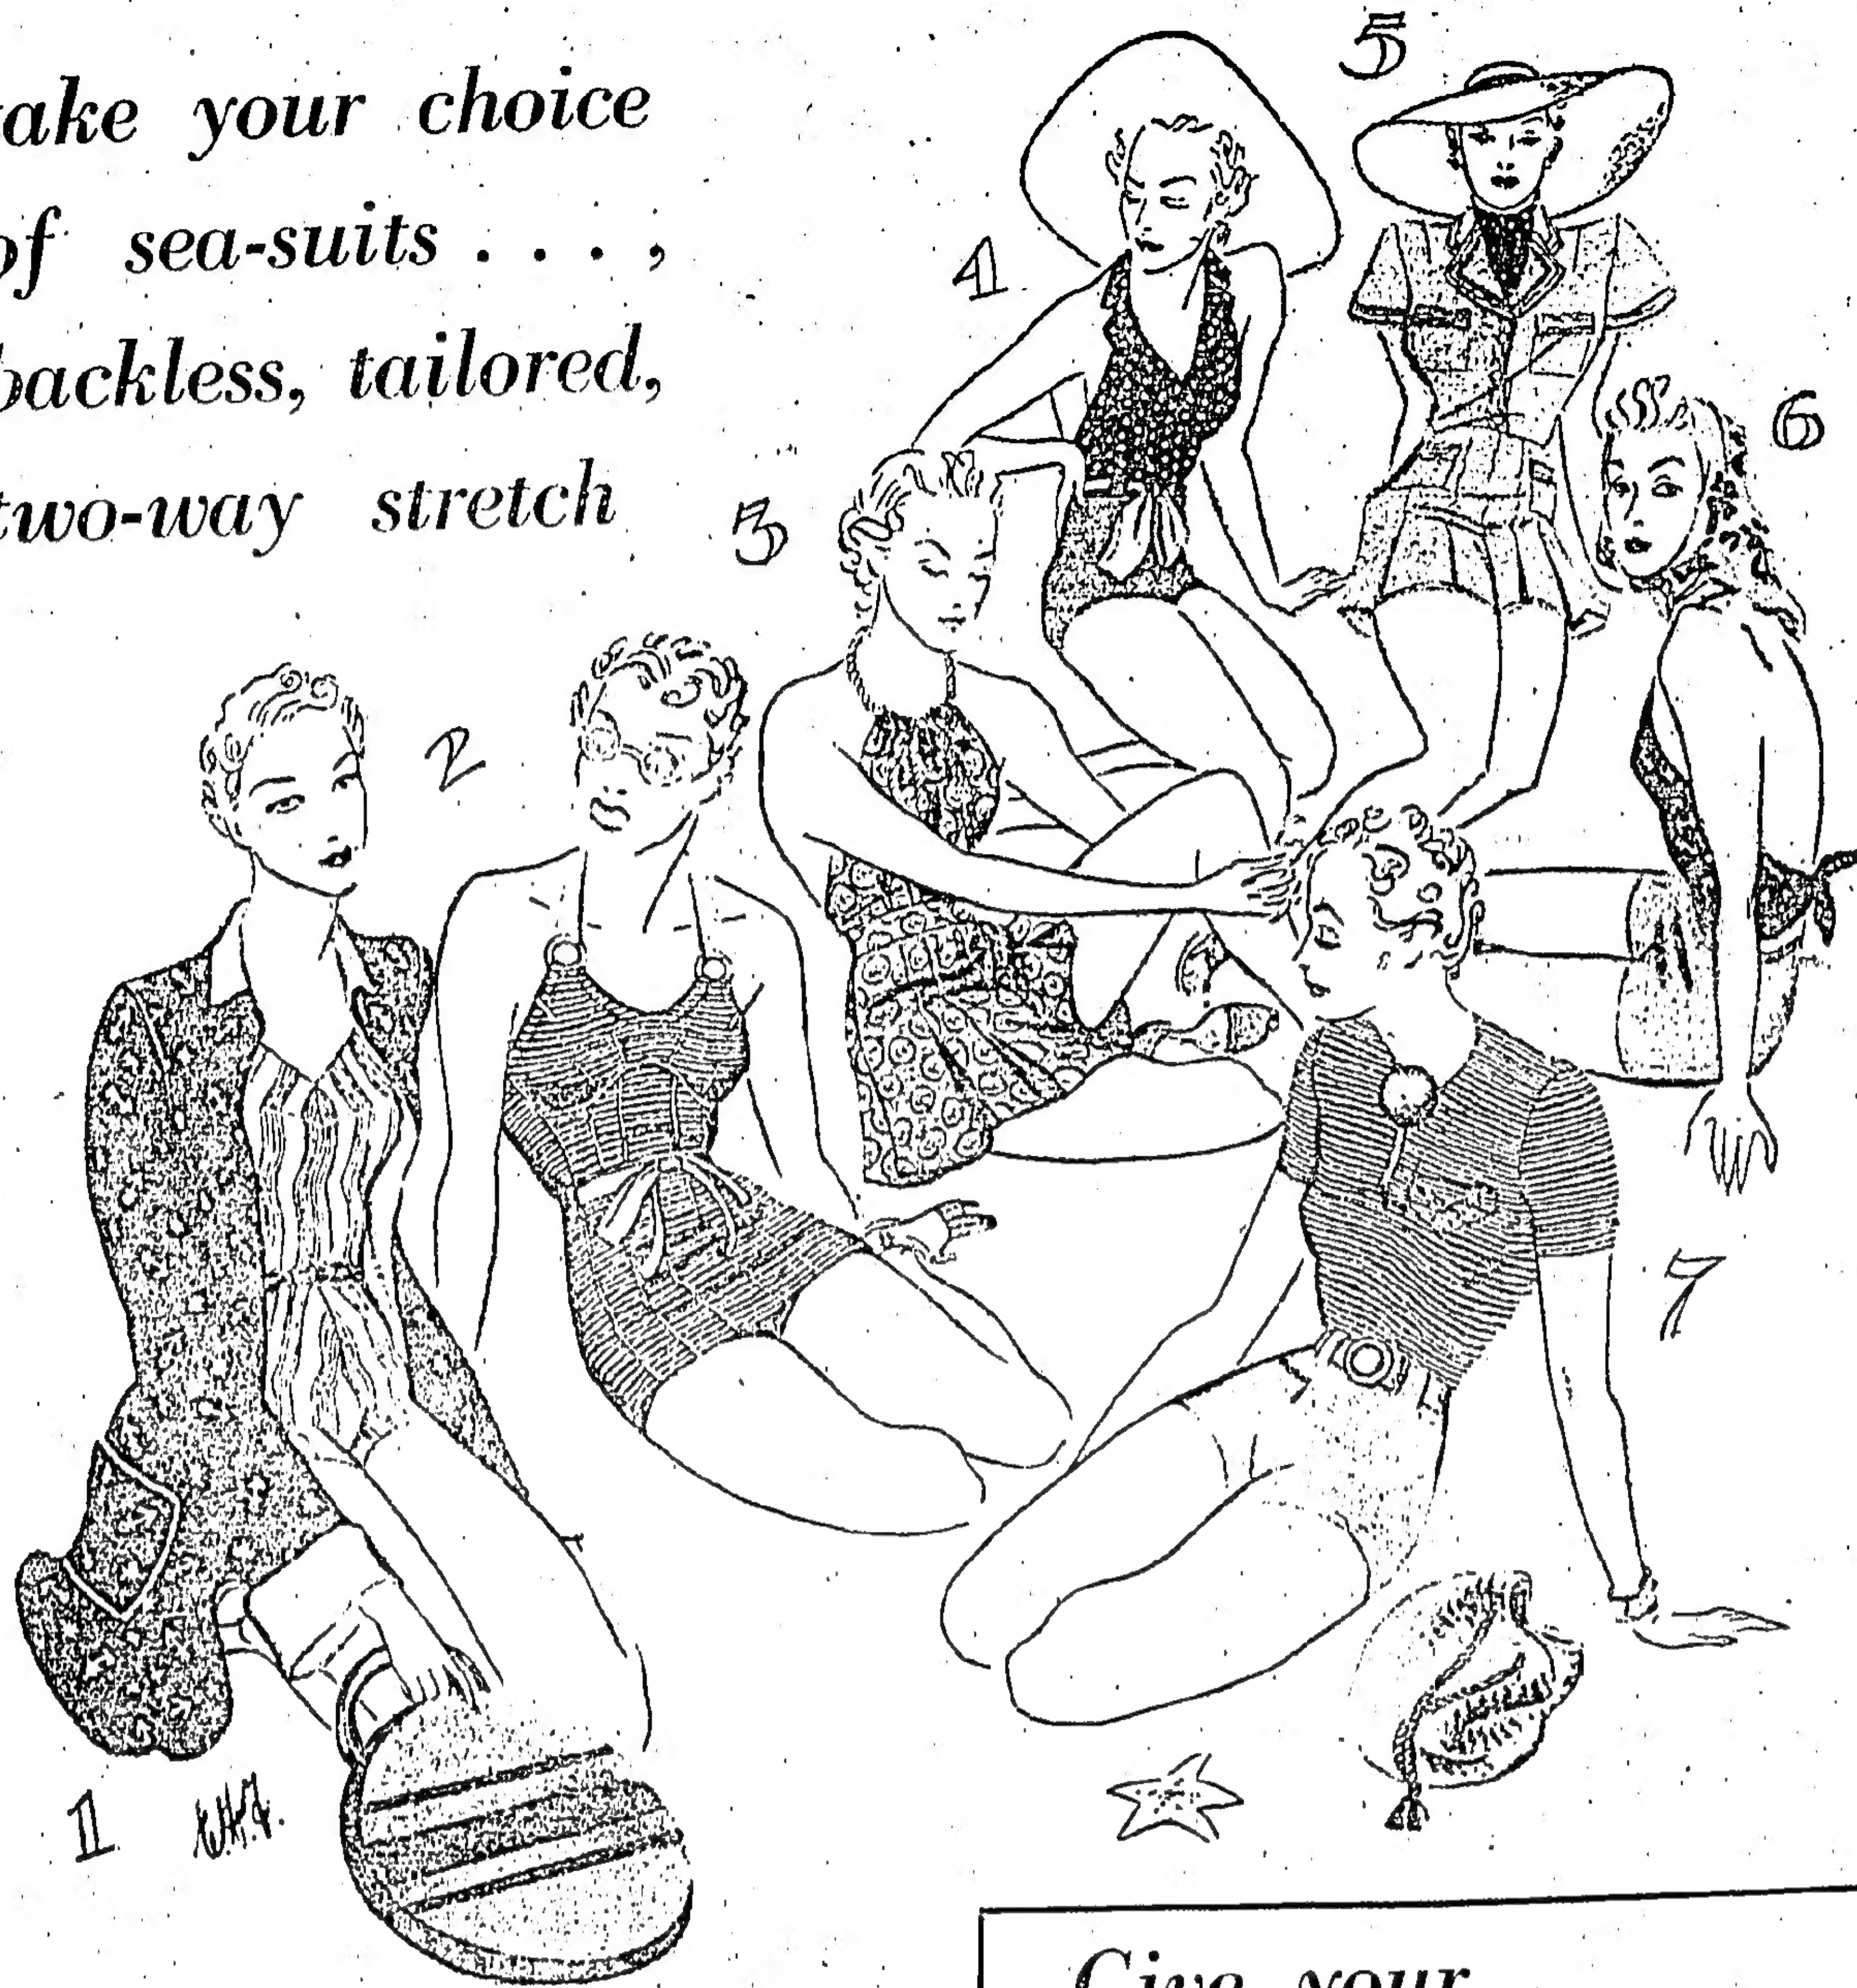

London, July 27.

No licence for the export of arms to Spain had been applied for since the trouble started in that country, Mr. Anthony Eden told the House of Commons to-day in answer to a question.

He said that any such applications would be refused, as the Government had no desire to have dealings with the belligerents.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

Give your CUT FLOWERS a chance to live

IN hot weather choose stiff-stemmed plants, such as carnations, in preference to sweet-peas, sunflowers, and so on.

Before arranging the flowers cut the stems under water and leave them to soak.

The object of cutting is to make sure that the stem cells are not sealed up, thus blocking the flow of water up the stem. Cutting under water prevents air bubbles getting into the stem and holding up the water supply.

Cut With Care And A Knife
Don't use scissors for cutting—they bruise the stem cells. Use a knife and make a slanting cut so that the cut stalks never rest flat on the bottom of the vase. Scrape a liberal allowance of bark off all woody stems. The methods used by flower shops vary, but most of them agree on the following principles:
(1) Give them plenty of fresh water.
(2) Keep the flowers in a cool place—in America many of the flower shop windows are in reality gigantic refrigerators. Others put chunks of ice in the water.
(3) Do not leave flowers in an air draught: it merely dries them up. Any mild disinfectant which prevents the growth of bacteria automatically helps to keep the water fresh.

Dishes for Hot Days

SARAH doesn't believe in slackness and what the politicians call "laissez faire," but she does consider that in hot weather cold dishes are distinctly to be recommended.

Nobody wants to work in a hot kitchen all day, she says, if by making a nice cold dish and putting it in the larder or refrigerator you can have a really good and pleasant meal.

Here, then, are some of the tasty little cold dishes that Sarah would like to make, and which I am sure you will enjoy.

Crab Mayonnaise

Have enough crab-meat to fill two breakfast cups and mix it thoroughly with one tablespoonful of olive oil and three of vinegar, a teaspoonful each of salt and made mustard, half a teaspoonful of finely-chopped parsley, a dash of cayenne pepper and one hard-boiled egg chopped up finely.

Arrange this mixture on a dish, cover it over with thick mayonnaise sauce and make, if you like, a crisp-crust design of anchovy fillets on top.

Haddock A la Tartare

Cook a good-sized smoked haddock, flake the flesh and arrange it on a dish in a heap.

Make a thick Tartare sauce (that is, a mayonnaise sauce, to which you have added chopped pickles, capers, parsley, chervil and tarragon; or you can now buy it in bottles, I believe), and pour it over the heap of fish. Decorate round with slices of tomatoes and hard-boiled egg.

Devilled Eggs

Ingredients: Six eggs, 3 tablespoonfuls cream of the milk; 1 tablespoonful Worcester sauce; 1 level dessertspoonful of butter; 14 teaspoonful each of salt and finely chopped parsley; 14-teaspoonful dry mustard.

Method: Hard-boil the eggs and cut them in half lengthwise. Mash up the yolks well and blend with them the above ingredients.

Pile this mixture up on each egg-half, arrange them on a bed of lettuce or mustard and cress, and sprinkle over with very finely chopped green part of spring onions, or with chives, if you have any.

Ham Mousse

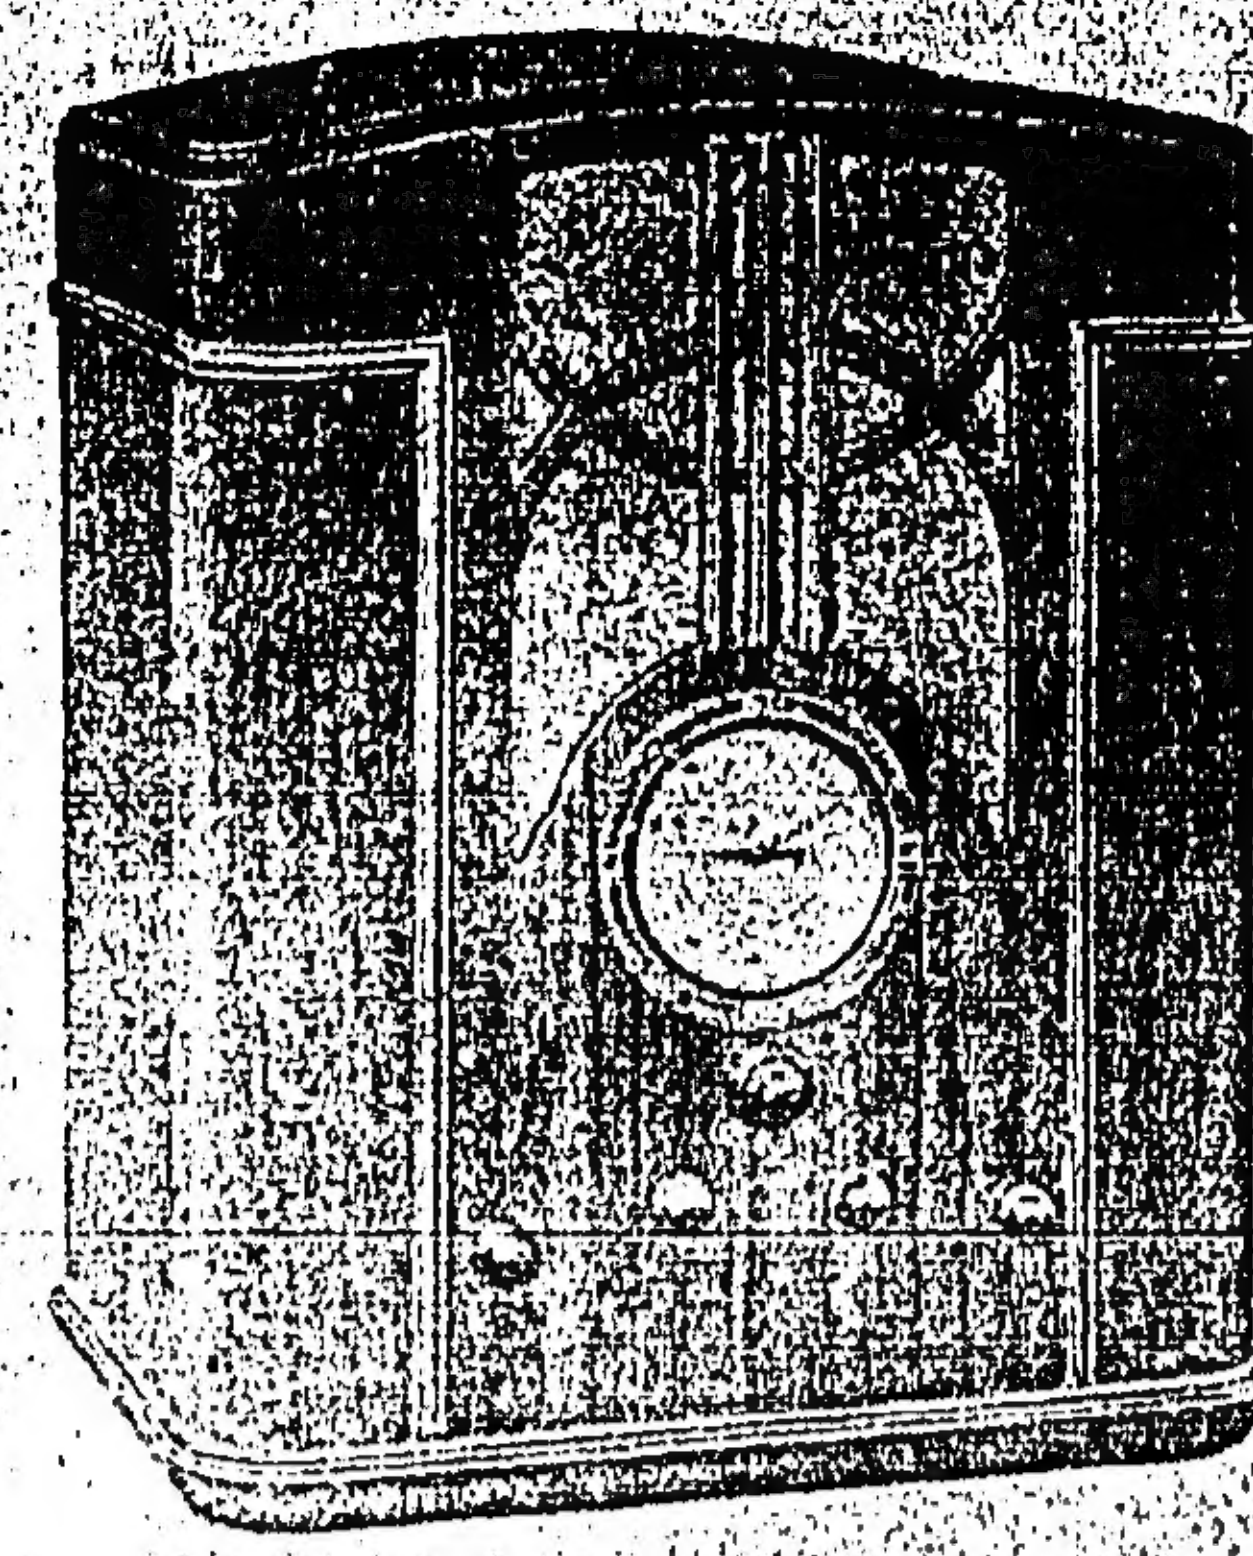

Ingredients: 2 breakfastcupfuls of chopped cold ham; a teaspoonful of made mustard; half a cupful of double cream; half a cupful of boiling water; a tablespoonful of gelatin powder soaked in a tablespoonful of cold water.

Method: Add the gelatin and water to the boiling water and when it has dissolved add it to the ham, which you have pounded as finely as possible. Add the mustard, a dust of cayenne and the stiffly-beaten cream. Put into a mould which has been rinsed in cold water and when it is cold turn the mould out.

Cold Meat In Jelly

A very pleasant way of serving slices of cold meat is to arrange them on a dish (on which you have first set a thin layer of meat jelly made with good clear meat stock and gelatine), garnish them with any nice cooked vegetables you have, carrots cut in pretty shapes, peas, French beans, asparagus tips, or even hard-boiled eggs. Then cover the whole thing with cooled liquid jelly and keep cold until wanted.

Soft poached eggs can be served cold in the same way.

NEW YEAR HONOUR AWARD ERASED

CANCELLATION of the award of a New Year Honour was notified in the London Gazette recently.

"The King has directed that the appointment of Frank Jago Munford to be a Member of the Civil Division of the Order of the British Empire, dated January 1, 1918, shall be cancelled and annulled, and his name erased from the register, in consequence of his having been convicted by the civil power."

Women Insist On Rights At Coronation

SO many women are claiming their rights to perform services of honour at the Coronation next year that the problem for the Lords Commissioners now is not so much "Have women the right?" to join in the ceremonial, but "Have they the strength?"

The Lords Commissioners, appointed by the King in his last proclamation to examine the rights and privileges of those whose families have performed services of honour at Coronations, are faced with an increasing number of claims.

The war eliminated a great many male heirs of Britain's good families. In the past when the rights rested on a woman she was required to name a male deputy. This was the custom at the last two Coronations.

Since then women have come into their own.

SEALED CLAIMS
Scores of sealed envelopes received by the commissioners from family solicitors contain women's claims.

If women are allowed to exercise their rights, then the King may have some attending him at the Coronation.

Can a woman be trusted to carry a heavy sword of State erect for nearly two hours?

That is one problem to be settled.

SCOTLAND'S NEW MONSTER

Fraserburgh, Aberdeenshire.

July 21.
The crew of the drifter Coral Bank, returning here to-day gave graphic details of a weird monster which they assert was seen among the fishing shoals.

The monster was described as "like a seal followed by two of its young," about 40ft. long, with a head and neck camel-like and carried out of water, two or three humps on its back, and of uniform grey from the neck.

Blind Builder

Blind since 8, Leo Anderson, 33, of Berkeley, Calif., who makes his living as a masseur and automobile mechanic, has started work on his life's ambition—building a power cabin cruiser. Doctors say he'll never see the results of his craftsmanship, but friends insist it'll be a real job when completed.

RED HOT BRICKS AS MEDICINE

WAYS FOR RHEUMATISM

Red hot bricks can be used as a form of treatment, according to Dr. Matthew B. Ray, senior honorary physician to the British Red Cross Clinic, for rheumatism. He makes his recommendation in an article published in the British Medical Journal.

The technique, one expert recalled to a press representative is that used by prehistoric man 500,000 years ago for cooking his food.

Dr. Ray's formula is simple: Make two bricks red hot in a fire and place them at the bottom of an old bucket. Over this support the limb to be treated, covering it the while with blankets.

INFRA-RED RAYS

"A knee, elbow, wrist, ankle, foot, or hand," he says, "can thus be exposed to infra-red rays, which are just as effective as those derived from a more expensive electrical apparatus."

"This is only one form of many apparently strange treatments that have lately been recommended for rheumatism. Colloidal gold is favoured by some authorities; ozone baths by others. Bee stings have been tried with success in certain cases, and good results have been claimed with ultra-short radio waves."

High frequency electric currents have been used to supply internal heat to the afflicted joint, and whiskey (less now than formerly) to supply heat to the whole body. Lemons have been favoured by some authorities because of their potassium content, and condemned by others on the score of their acidity. Many countrymen still believe to-day in the efficacy of the potato.

An American doctor has claimed to be able to cure practically any form of rheumatism by massaging the ankles, and there are West Country practitioners who prescribe cider. As for baths, the experts of the Red Cross Clinic tell us that the waters of London are as good as any—provided that the treatments are correctly given.

HE HAS 100 SECRETARIES

By CLIFFORD LEWIS

ELY CULBERTSON, the man who made 20 million people bridge-crazy, is to-day earning £100,000 a year.

Yet three years after the war he was living on £2 a week, sometimes wondering where he would find his next meal.

Ely Culbertson, who is staying in a luxury suite at a London hotel, told me the astonishing story of his climb from obscurity.

"My father, a Russian merchant, had a fortune of a million pounds," he said.

"He lost it all in the Revolution. I was plunged into poverty. I lived on £2 a week when I was lucky—more often less than that."

"In 1921, penniless, I walked into the Knickerbocker Club, New York, where a friend was going to buy me a meal. There it was suggested I should teach America the science of European Bridge playing."

"My wife thought I had the makings of a great bridge tutor. I took her suggestion. We worked for years devising a scheme."

A Millionaire

"I tried to put it across—unsuccessfully. Finally, I hired a publisher myself—and gave my system to the world."

"In ten years I was a millionaire."

To-day Ely Culbertson has 100 secretaries.

His gross income is more than £100,000 a year.

He makes £24,000 from broadcasts.

£12,000 from articles syndicated in 170 American newspapers.

£5,000 from 36 lectures a year.

A million of his books have sold in two years, bringing him an income of £40,000 a year.

Thousands pour in from cigarette card tips and endorsements.

It costs him £5,000 a year to answer his correspondence.

Recipe for Success

"I care nothing for money—I don't consider I have yet started to make it," he continued.

"Anyone can be rich. There is only one never-failing recipe for success—don't think about making money. Strive for technical supremacy in your particular field. Money will then follow."

"The number of hours you work is immaterial. I work hard—10 hours a day—because I like it."

"People who slave all day in routine jobs are doomed—they're like pit horses trudging in circles."

"I have a wonderful wife and two fine children—but until a year ago I was very unhappy. I was always ill because I used up all my nervous energy in my work."

HYPNOTIST CHIEF OF MURDER GANG

Stockholm, July 21.

CAPTURED for the killing of a bank porter who had been robbed of £1,000, a gang of five men—led by a homeopathist, aged 28, who hypnotised his patients—has confessed to a series of hitherto unsolved murders here.

The men are aged between 19 and 29, and so sinister have their exploits been that Swedish newspapers are discussing the necessity of reintroducing capital punishment, abolished more than 30 years ago.

Huge crowds, angered by the terror reign the gang had upheld for six years, cried: "Kill them... kill them..." when the murderers were taken to prison in police motor-cars.

The gang's confessions include: Their First Murder.—In 1930 they shot the chauffeur of a hired motor-car because he heard their plans for robbing a big dairy. As he did not die from his wounds they drowned him in a river.

Killed a Household.—Dressed as policemen they induced the man in charge of a mine to let them into his house, where they shot him and his housekeeper, and stole roughly £350 in miners' wages before setting the house on fire.

Gasped Woman.—They killed a rich and aged peasant woman—a patient of their leader—in her lonely cottage by leading a tube from their motor-car exhaust to the woman's bedroom. Here again they set the house on fire.

300 Gigolos Start

"Sit-out" Strike

Nico, July 20.

Three hundred professional men dancing-partners in Riviera night clubs, cabarets, and casinos stopped dancing to-day and began a "wallflower" strike.

They demand shorter hours, permission to sit at their clients' tables and a minimum wage of 11s. a night.

Yacht's World Trip To Give Screen Realism

Southwick (near Brighton), July 15.

Athens, a small, elegant yacht of 75 tons, dropped anchor off Southwick to-day and waited for the tide so that she could enter harbour and all but complete a voyage which may revolutionise the film industry.

This yawl-rigged craft, flying the American flag, has the world in celluloid stowed away in a wonderful laboratory which has been built and equipped near her comfortable saloon.

She has come from Los Angeles by way of the Pacific, Hongkong, the China Seas, the Indian Ocean, and the Mediterranean.

Her owner is Mr. Tay Garnett, who directed "China Seas," with Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery.

HE WANTS REALISM

He is out to put realism on the screen.

He wants pictures to have real backgrounds. He began this trip because he was tired of the make-believe of many Hollywood sets.

"We have travelled nearly 19,000 miles," Mr. Garnett said to-day, "and I have exposed 60,000 feet of film which will be used as backgrounds for pictures."

"When we produce a picture of India it will be the real India we show. I have been to Hawaii, India, China, Japan, India, the Malay Peninsula, the Red Sea—everywhere we could go."

"This expedition has been highly expensive, but if I succeed—I have succeeded—it means that the man who produces his film backgrounds at home is done for."

"I have already sent home prints of the film I have taken, and in the picture 'Trade Winds,' for instance, I show half the world—America, China, Japan, Straits Settlements, Penang, Ceylon, India and the Androth Islands."

"World Cruise" is another picture that will include the world in reality. It includes many island scenes."

before the close of the financial year on 31st October.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE MARKET HIGHER YESTERDAY

New York, July 27.
Swan, Culbertson & Fritz. Dow Jones summary of yesterday's market.—The market to-day advanced and the Dow Jones Industrial Average reached the highest level since 1931.
Railroad and utility averages reached the highest since 1933. Trade was fairly active, due to renewed investment and speculative demand, on which, however, the market was only moderately responsive. Utility securities advanced on the increased dividend announced by the Consolidated Edison Company. Motor shares followed the rise in United States Steel issues. Finally, assumed the leadership on forecasts of increased dividend on preferred issues. Railroad stocks joined the advance late in the session, led by New York Centrals. The market for bonds was irregularly higher, whilst stocks on the Curb Exchange were higher.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: Securities to-day were in generally good demand and prices were higher. Temperatures, professional traders are more wary of the technical position. The General Motor Company earned $2.00 per share for the June quarter as against $1.16 last year. The Consolidated Edison Company earned 54 cents as against 48 cents the previous year.
The Schenley Distillers Corporation earned $1.09 per share for the June quarter as compared with $1.38 during the corresponding quarter of last year. The National Dairy Products Corporation earned 89 cents per share for the 6 months ended June 30 as against 49 cents last year. The Great Northern Iron Ore Properties earned $2,571,000 during June as against $1,939,000 in June last year. The Times Business Index for the past week is 100.2 as against 101.4 last week and 94.8 during the corresponding period of last year.

Cotton: Favourable Texas crop reports and a forecast of rains in Oklahoma precipitated profit-taking on early strength. The market shows a two-sided tendency, but we think prices will work higher.

Wheat: There has been no material relief in Canada and reports indicate poor crops in Europe. Sentiment is bullish on the world's supply position. The visible supply has increased by 13,980,000 bushels, whilst the Canadian visible supply has decreased by 4,452,000 bushels.

Corn: There have been some showers and the weather is now cooler. Alarming reports of deterioration, however, continue. Snow & Company say that the crops are falling rapidly. The visible supply shows a decrease of 63,000 tons.

Rubber: Factories are indifferent.
The market is sluggish. The English stocks have declined by 2,599 tons.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal morning comment:—Steel operations have increased by 2 points to 71.5 per cent, many observers believing that the present satisfactory production will continue into August. The Anaconda Wire & Cable Company, which on Wednesday doubled its quarterly dividends to 50 cents per share, has reported a second-quarter income of $632,148, which is a gain of 151 per cent over the same quarter of 1935. The income amounted to

CINEMA NOTES

"The 39 Steps" now showing at the King's Theatre, is one British made picture which holds up its head with the finest thing in film entertainment that ever came out of Hollywood. The story, written by the Governor-General of Canada, John Buchan, is entirely new and different from the stereotyped plots with which Hollywood has been selling the film market in the last few years.
It deals with the adventures of Robert Donat, who, as a suspected murderer, can get away from police officers easier than a tarpon from the end of a herring fish-line. The big punch of the picture, and let us tell you that it has to be big to overshadow the rest of the film, comes in the final reel, when Donat solves the mystery of how information about new war machinery was being carried out of England despite the fact that no important state papers were reported as missing. Incidentally, in clearing up the mystery, Donat also clears up the charge of murder placed against him, thus providing for the traditional happy ending. Included in the cast, besides Robert Donat and Madeleine Carroll, are Lily Mannheim, Godfrey Tearle, Peggy Ashcroft, John Laurie, and Helen Haye.
A musical, featuring Phil Spitalny and his famous Girl Orchestra, and a Terrytown round out an enjoyable programme at the King's.

"Flirtation Walk"

The most popular co-starring team on the screen to-day, Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell, make their fifth appearance together in "Flirtation Walk," the new First National musical romance, which comes to the Star Theatre to-day, for one day only. The Keeler-Powell combine has appeared in "42nd Street," "Gold Diggers of 1933," "Footlight Parade" and "Dames." Where their other successes have presented them against a theatrical background, "Flirtation Walk" shows them in an entirely new setting. Their romance begins in Hawaii, where Ruby, a General's daughter, meets Dick, a young private in the army. Then the action switches to West Point, where Dick is trying to make himself an "officer and gentleman." Frank Borzage, famed for "Seventh Heaven" and "Little Man, What Now?," directed the new Keeler-Powell picture in which Pat O'Brien has a leading role as a tough army sergeant. There are several magnificent dance sequences, directed by Bobby Connolly and featuring hundreds of Hollywood's most beautiful girls. The Hawaiian dance number introduces Sol Hupoi and his Orchestra, known to all lovers of the theatre. Others in the cast of "Flirtation Walk" are John Eldredge, Ross Alexander, Henry
O'Neill, Guinn Williams, John Arledge and Glen Boles. The music and lyrics are by the famous team of Allie Wrubel and Mort Dixon and the screen play by Dolmar Davis, based on an original story by Daves and Lou Edelman.

ENSURING NATIONAL SECURITY

When we think of the measures which are being taken in the Old Country for ensuring national security, we are apt to overlook the point that "defences" have to be interpreted in the broadest manner possible, so as to include civilians as well as soldiers, and food as well as ammunition and aeroplanes. In the plans upon which the Government has now embarked, all aspects of the issues involved are being kept well in mind, and it is noteworthy also, in regard to aerial defence, that local authorities are showing a marked willingness to co-operate to the fullest extent in the measures being taken. There are still a few stubborn extremists who do not admit the necessity of preparedness against the possibility of aerial raids, but the great majority of the people are fully aware of the need for taking every possible precaution in this direction. As an example of what the local authorities are doing, it is of interest to note that a county so remote from the heart of the nation as Devon is demonstrating a measure of enterprise and activity which is in keeping with that of the Government, which, with the approval of all wide-awake citizens, has begun large-scale reorganisation and expansion of the Air Force. The authorities in Devonshire are compiling a national emergency register in which the names of all non-combatant sections of the population—that is, men over fifty, as well as women and girls—will be ready to serve their country in time of need. The idea at the back of this plan is that all the spadework shall be done in advance, so that, in the event of an emergency arising, the names of those on the register shall be immediately at the disposal of the appropriate Government departments, together with details of the services which each enrolled person may be able to render. The idea, of course, is not a new one, but the fact that it is being put into force in this specific centre, and is likely to be adopted by others as well, serves to indicate the thorough-going manner in which the country is entering into organised schemes aiming at national security. This, however, is only one aspect of the question; no sphere of activity is being overlooked either by the Government or the various local authorities. Whatever the shortcomings of the past may have been, it is evident that the nation has now been aroused to a full consciousness of present-day needs.

This Explains Empire
Defence

CUT the globe at the twentieth line of longitude to the west of Greenwich Observatory, and what lies to the left of it is no cause for worry, thanks to our friendship with the United States of America.

But from that line eastwards to the far side of New Zealand is a matter of immediate concern to the people of these islands, for the pipe-lines through which is pumped into London are laid across the seas between 20 degrees west and 179 degrees east. They run as far as 60 degrees both north and south of the equator.

These pipe-lines British naval strategy is concerned to preserve; for upon their unimpeded maintenance, depends the ease with which tribute and life flow into imperial Britain: gold and diamonds, from South Africa, cotton from Egypt, spices from Ceylon, all treasure from India, tin and rubber from Malaya, wool from Australasia; and from all and more of them interest on the loans with which British capitalists dowered them in early and late days.

THE great maritime highways of the world are British highways, policed by the fleet for which the taxpayer is called upon to pay £80,230,000 every year; guarded by the army which costs him £49,281,000 and shadowed by the wings of an air force for which he pays £39,000,000.

Like A. A. boxes spread along an arterial road, Britain, in the smash and grab days of her history, spread boxes along the highways to the east.

Their resounding names are milestones in imperial history, and are known to every child almost as soon as its eyes are opened.

Gibraltar, Malta, Suez, Aden, Bombay, Colombo, Trincomalee, Singapore and the ports of Australasia are the boxes along the by-pass. On the old route boxes are at Capetown and the ports of Australasia.

Along the first of these highways the road bifurcates at Singapore and one part moves northwards to the two great entrepôts of the Far East, Hongkong and Shanghai.

These are the main highways but not the only ones, for lanes lead to Palestine, along the east coast of Africa, up the shores of India to Calcutta and down the rich littoral of Burma.

They turn and twist between the islands of the East Indies and give access to a host of scattered atolls, all of some strategic value, whose names would overflow these columns.

In 1869 Eugénie, Empress of the French, stood in the bows of the first vessel ever to sail from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea; and from that moment the by-pass has been in use.

NOTES OF THE DAY

The Government of Spain, controlled by extremists of the Leftist camp, has endeavoured to obtain assistance from France in suppressing the revolt of the Monarchist, Fascist and other Rightist elements, including the adherents of the Roman Church. The Government of Spain has been refused munitions by the Government of France, following the outcry by the French Rightist press against an anticipated acceptance by M. Blum, the French Prime Minister, of Madrid's invitation to co-operate in defending a Leftist administration, of the same colour and conviction as that in Paris. The French refusal was well advised. In the first place, if France sent assistance of any sort to the Spanish Government, and were that Government eventually destroyed by the revolt, the allies of the eliminated party would be apt to find themselves in a distinctly embarrassing position, having lost the good-will of a big neighbour. More than that, if the Leftist Government in France were to move to assist Leftist sympathisers in Spain, the development might encourage

Photo-diagram shows vital triangle of Empire defence. Italy's control of Red Sea and Mediterranean means Britain can no longer rely on imperial by-pass of Suez. Future strategy will be based on the triangle's two sides, Capetown at the angle. Italian possessions black; British Empire speckled.

When Disraeli, some few years later, bought for Britain the Suez Canal shares held by a debauched khedive, the by-pass became British.

Until Badoglio rode into Addis Ababa on a white charger it remained a British by-pass; but it is so no longer. The shadow of Italian imperial ambitions has darkened the clear waters of the Red Sea; and in its pellucid depths the reflection of the Union Jack is now challenged by the green, white and red banner of imperial Rome.

What had been British strength is now British Weakness. A menaced Red Sea means, perhaps, an untenable Mediterranean; for you cannot blow up one part of a by-pass without making the whole of it unfit for traffic.

Outside Home waters British naval strategy was based on the Mediterranean as a high way for sea traffic; but it may well prove that Italian tactics have turned it into a lake from which, in time of trouble, British ships will find it difficult to leave in safety, for between Gibraltar and the Canal is a narrow channel separating Sicily from Tunis. It is guarded in the middle by Italy's fortified island of Pantellaria.

THE times are out of joint for pre- and post-war naval strategy. The Mediterranean, once a flowing tide of ships, may become the focal point in another war.

In such a war the British fleet would suffer damage that might be irreparable. Its danger lies in its comparative immobility: its safety in the impregnable air base which lies at the eastern end of that landlocked sea.

For Palestine is the hope of its salvation. Behind that narrow country lie the immeasurable deserts of biblical antiquity: before it, the sea.

Operating from a base out of range of any hostile navy or air force, the wings of Britain could spread themselves, rise and destroy and then return comparatively undamaged. Under the aegis of those wings now falls the safety of the Suez and of the wealth of Egypt; and under their aegis, in future, a British fleet at that end of the Mediterranean must operate.

This reversal of what we have come to look on as the correct order of nature has been long in arriving, but Mussolini's gamble, which only the timidity of the Admiralty allowed to succeed, has forced the pace; and the question in the Mediterranean is no longer how to ensure a free passage for British ships in time of war, but how to protect the imperial status quo.

FACTS

Oswald, Pirow, South African Minister of Defence, forty-six, stocky, spectacled, worships athletics, and is seen by enemies as future Fascist Dictator. Six years ago was burned in effigy at Johannesburg by vast crowd of natives.

Objective: Position of Capetown in reorientation of Empire Defence made necessary by Italian control of Red Sea.

A blockade of this nature is encouraging to Britain's enemies in the east. The virtual closing of the Suez Canal to British warships not only increases the journey from England to Singapore by over 3,000 miles, but it renders impotent those capital ships required for defensive purposes in the Mediterranean.

At this stage of history Capetown appears on the horizon of the strategic sky and Singapore sinks away. A great naval base is to be built at the former; further work on the latter, it is rumoured, is to be abandoned.

Men who ought to know are talking of an expenditure of £14,000,000, of which the poor British taxpayer is to find half.

And so the old high road comes back into its own; and on the by-pass weeds spring up and it is deserted, except for a policeman or so.

Capetown must build so that if war should come, British ships can move easily to a beleaguered Singapore or an attacked Australia. Without risk they can tear across the wide spaces of the Indian Ocean; but only with the gravest and most unjustifiable of risks can they move through the Suez and down the scarcely wider Red Sea, a target for bombs, an attraction for mines and submarines.

AND so the immensely complicated strategic game goes on. Air power has altered it and driven warships into the open sea; but air power has not emasculated the battleship, for aeroplanes cannot travel long distances without stopping for a breather and a meal of petrol. Their effective range is short; that of warships is long.

Any enemy aeroplanes that wished to fly east to attack Britain's wealth would have a hard job, for the territory of the world, as mapped at present, shows that we and our potential allies own the fuelling stations along the route.

Let us take one more look at the map; and on it draw what is approximately a right angled triangle whose right angle is at Capetown and the two ends of whose hypotenuse are London and Sydney.

That tells the story: since 1869 British naval strategy has been based along the hypotenuse: Mussolini has compelled us to revert to the other two sides.

And the lesson of it? That because we failed to close the Suez Canal to Mussolini, he has now closed it to us.

FORMER H.K. NEWSPAPER-WOMAN IN "JAIL"

Mary Knight Tells How It Feels To Go To Prison

"I HAVE BEEN IN A JAIL IN CHINA"

NEWSPAPER people—men and women—get all sorts of queer assignments from their Editors.

Miss Mary Knight, Staff Reporter for United Press in Hongkong for almost a year until her recall to the United States last May, was told to go to prison for a day almost as soon as she reached her destination.

The following is the story she wrote about it.

By MARY KNIGHT

New York, July 13. I spent this morning in a women's prison with the seventy-nine prostitutes whose testimony helped to convict "Lucky" Luciano and the gangsters who bossed the brothers of Manhattan.

Later today, the authorities will begin to release them, secretly and a few at a time for they will leave the jail in imminent danger of underworld vengeance, perhaps assassination.

They gave evidence against New York's Vice Lord, now facing a long prison term. And well many they fear retribution for the vice trust they helped to smash was powerful enough to offer an assistant prosecutor a supreme court judge-ship or $250,000 to sell out the case against Luciano. Testimony at the trial brought out death threats against girl witnesses.

Special prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey has no illusions about the probable future of his star witnesses, but social welfare organizations have hopes of helping them to more respectable positions in society. The girls will be urged to return to their homes and special railroad rates have been arranged. Most of them are from the States.

I can truthfully say that I would rather be inside looking out than outside looking in if I were in their shoes, not only because of the danger they face, but because of the comfort and security of their jail quarters as compared to their past and probable future existence.

CHINESE JAILS

I have been in French and Chinese jails, but when it comes to the comforts of home there is no jail I have been in like New York House of Detention for Women.

When I went in this morning I asked the matron to "put me through" to give me the "works." I didn't actually strip off my clothes, take the compulsory bath or the therapeutic jail ensemble of unbleached domestic. But I saw how it was done, and there was no bull-dozing of the prisoners, not even a harsh word. The matrons are maternally enough "souls of them" even border on the motherly type.

The girls are asked what kind of work they prefer and have a wide range of choice—from fancy sewing to sedentary maid. Their lipstick and powder are taken away when they enter the prison, as they might contain narcotics or poison, but they are allowed to buy 6-and-10 cigarettes from the commissary. Cigarettes may be bought there, and candy, handkerchiefs and knick-knacks are for sale.

The cells are spacious, each with its own window and private lavatory. There is a rug on the floor, a table and a wall bed with a rubber-covered mattress, sheets and pillow. The girls are allowed to embroider special linens if they wish. I saw one such set neatly decorated in blue cross-stitch.

BREAKFAST AT 7.30

Breakfast is served at 7.30, an hour after the rising bell. Lunch is at 11.45 and dinner comes at 5.30. For the hours of recreation there is an outdoor playground on the roof where shuffleboard, tennis and volleyball are offered. For musicians there are pianos, for artists there are paints and canvas. Paintings by inmates decorate the recreation rooms.

Four of the "Luciano girls" were sitting together in a recreation room. Two of them were amazingly pretty, almost beautiful. If I had seen them anywhere else I would have thought they were debutantes.

THEY WANT TO STAY

The matron told me that many of them do not want to go back home, but prefer to stay here, keep under cover for a while and eventually take up their old profession. They wouldn't tell me their names, which do not matter anyway, because they are changing them, and the ones they use are not their real ones.

This is a big moment for most of these girls. Most of them have more than $200 from their $1 a day fees as witnesses. Several who were users of narcotics have been cured. And the ones who drink—and most of them do—can now get all they want instead of the "ration" given them by Mr. Dewey's men to keep their nerves from going to pieces.

There were 429 inmates of the prison today, most of them "delinquents" and far worse off than the Luciano trial witnesses. More than half were Negroes—black and brown—were under treatment for social diseases. Those under treatment wear brown dresses, those whose health records are clear wear white, and those who are to be released within the next twenty-four hours wear a brown and white checked model.

I have seen a lot of misery in a lot of countries besides this one. I have seen how women are punished for getting off the straight and narrow. But I haven't seen many places where I'd rather go for a few years' visit if I'd just been convicted of a crime.

THE QUEEN MARY

FOG AND HEAD WINDS PREVENT RECORD

London, July 27.

The Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary made a notable crossing of the Atlantic despite heavy head winds throughout the voyage while belts of fog were encountered throughout Saturday and necessitated reduction of speed and continuous use of her siren.

An announcement made at the head offices of the Company states: "The Queen Mary passed Ambrose Light at 4.23 a.m. G.M.T."

She had covered the total distance of 3,698 miles from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose Light in four days eight hours 37 minutes, at an average speed of 29.61 knots.

From noon, ship's time yesterday, until she passed Ambrose Light she travelled three hundred and ninety miles at an average speed of 29.14 knots.

Cunard-White Star would make no official comment on the run this morning, and would neither confirm nor deny whether any record had been broken.

The trip compares as follows with the maiden voyage and record trip of the Normandie, which established the record.

Normandie travelled 2,971 miles from Bishop's Rock to Ambrose Light, in four days three hours 14 minutes. There was a tragic episode when Queen Mary approached Ambrose Light—British Wireless.

Record Not Broken

New York, July 27. Sir Edgar Britten announced that the Queen Mary's time from Cherbourg to Ambrose Light was four days, eight hours and 37 minutes, which is three hours and five minutes less than the Normandie's time for the longer route from Southampton.

The Queen Mary's average speed was 29.61 knots, compared with the Normandie's speed of 29.04 knots.

Thus the French liner's record remains unbroken.—Reuter.

Heiress Is Richer by $150,000

Ann Cooper-Hewitt, heiress to the 10-million-dollar estate of Peter Cooper-Hewitt, has been awarded $150,000 by the company bonding her mother, Mrs. Maryon Cooper-Hewitt. It was announced in San Francisco. Meanwhile, trial of two doctors accused of mayhem in connection with the sterilization of the girl has been postponed.

"THAT IS THE ROOM IN WHICH I WAS MURDERED"

Bride's Amazing Statement

DR. CANNON'S NEW BOOK ON "POWERS OF KARMA"

DR. ALEXANDER CANNON, student of the occult and former Hongkong University lecturer, is a firm believer in the ancient rites and ceremonies of the East.

He is now a Harley Street mental specialist. He was on the L.C.C. mental hospitals staff, but resigned last year. The story of his life was told in the Hongkong "Telegraph" last week. Dr. Cannon tells some uncanny stories, which he claims have all been authenticated.

MANY people on visiting a place for the first time have experienced a feeling that the new scenes are quite familiar to them.

Dr. Cannon suggests that this experience is a demonstration of reincarnation.

Here is one story which he tells in his latest book "The Power of Karma," just published in London.

A young lawyer of Budapest had recently married and set off for his honeymoon trip along the Danube. The bride had never visited the locality. But, arriving at Passau, where they changed steamers, she displayed considerable uneasiness and declared that every scene was familiar.

LOST KEYS

As they proceeded further, she described the curious landscape, and even the meadows hidden from view by the hills.

She told of a castle some distance away, describing the place accurately, and in order to calm his bride the husband made inquiries. The castle existed exactly as the girl had described, and the pair visited.

The bride was able to guide the caretaker round the place, and told him that in a certain part was a room which had remained locked for years.

The caretaker admitted the existence of the room, but declared that the keys had been lost.

The bride, however, was able to tell him where the keys were hidden and they were found as she had said.

On entering the room she exclaimed: "There are two bodies in there." The skeletons of two people were found in the room, and by the side of one a rusty dagger.

"It is the room in which I was murdered," she exclaimed, and then fainted.

Dr. Cannon says: "It is scarcely necessary to add that the medical men (who attended the bride in hospital) were quite unable to account for the phenomenon."

CHILD'S "PAST LIFE"

Dr. Cannon tells of a child of eight years living near Delhi. The girl, from the time she could speak, told strange stories of her past life, how she was the wife of a certain man living at an address which she gave in a town many miles away.

She declared that she had died on a certain date, and had left sorrowing relatives, whom she named.

Neither the man whose name she gave nor the town was known to the child's parents.

Speed-Up On Far East Air Lines

AUSTRALIA'S PLAN

In conjunction with a general speed-up of air services throughout the Far East next year, the Australian Government is planning to organise a daily high speed air service, linking the six capitals of the Commonwealth and carrying all first class units without surcharge.

The new high-speed service will be timed to link up with arrival of mails from Europe and Hongkong, and will co-operate with Imperial Airways' fleet of giant flying-boats which are to be placed on the Far East route shortly.

Expenditure of a further £100,000 on the improvement of aerodromes for the scheme is expected to be included in the Federal estimates for 1936-37.

Cabinet tentatively adopted the plan last year, and allocated £100,000 as a first instalment for the equipping of aerodromes with night flying apparatus and other improvements.

£250,000 SCHEME

It is now regarded as inevitable that the Federal Government will agree to co-operate in the British Government's service with flying boats from London to Sydney and the necessity for a speedier internal service to link with this scheme is recognised by the Government.

The inter-capital scheme was proposed by the Post Office, and is estimated to involve capital expenditure of £250,000. The annual cost of air service contracts is set down at £100,000 and the additional annual expenditure by the Civil Aviation Branch would be about £25,000.

The Post Office suggests that the inter-capital air mail should first be established and carry mails at the present 2d rate for about a year.

A fleet of multi-engine aeroplanes, with a cruising speed of 180 miles an hour, is envisaged in the plan.

The journey from Brisbane to Perth would be flown in two days, bringing Hongkong within four days of the western capital.

Big Game At K. C. C.

Rowland Cricket Club and K.C.C. (1) will make another effort today to play off their "A" Division tennis league match which has now been twice postponed.

The result of this encounter is bound to have an important bearing on the championship. Both teams are undefeated, and although, on paper at least, K.C.C. appear to be the stronger, the fact that K.C.C. are at home may well turn the result in their favour.

New York, July 20.

Joe Louis, faced with the task of rebuilding his prize-fighting reputation, will start August 18 in a bout with Jack Sharkey, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today.

Jacobs said that the Detroit Negro and Boston's famed Garryshon Cobb signed to fight 10 rounds in Yankee Stadium, scene of Louis' surprise defeat last month at the hands of Max Schmeling of Germany, former world's heavyweight champion.

Sharkey, who is beyond the age when sports experts think he can come back, has repeatedly asserted that he could beat either Louis or Schmeling. His comeback attempt in recent weeks has been only mildly successful, however.

FILIPINOS FAIL TO IMPRESS CRITICS IN THEIR TRAINING

Berlin, July 10.

While summer heat here forced most athletes who will compete in the Olympic games to take only light workouts to-day the Philippine team held a lengthy training session before the grand stands which were packed for the final dress rehearsal prior to the opening of the competition.

The performances of the Filipino track and field men indicate that they have much ground to make up if they are to win any Olympic laurels.

Standard Of Play Was Mediocre

Grimmitt Loses Touch When Holding Long Lead

(By "Veritas")

A. E. Coates of Craigengower yesterday entered the final of the Hongkong lawn bowls singles championship for the first time in his career when he defeated A. W. Grimmitt, former title-holder by 21 shots to 20 after 23 heads on the Hongkong Football Club green.

It was a close finish and this, plus the grimmess of the match, engendered excitement. For the most part the bowling never arose above mediocrity, and at times, with both players defeated by the queer run of the green, the heads were exceedingly poor.

But it was good lighting bowls, with Coates making what is now becoming to be a characteristic recovery. He had to wait until 18 heads had been played before he gained the lead for the first time (it was obtained with a perfect "4"—probably the best head of the match), and at one stage he was 5-13 in arrears.

GOOD TACTICS

Coates' tactics played a notable part in his comeback. He began to give flag-high heads—he had three in succession which reaped him four shots—Grimmitt usually taking too much green for the short draw.

It was a flag-high head which saw Coates lay four magnificent woods on the 18th head; two "rested" the Jack and the others were no more than eight inches away. And this was the turning point of the match. It gave Coates a lead, and although Grimmitt responded well with a three on the 20th, and a single each on the 21st and 22nd heads, he was clearly concerned by the sudden change in fortunes.

Grimmitt chose a long head towards the racecourse for the 23rd, but the forehand draw was extremely difficult, the green sending the woods straight through when they should have been turning in steadily; while on the backhand, with anything under a two yards draw, woods were taken sharply across in front of the Jack.

Grimmitt, requiring one shot for the match, and Coates' two, tried right-hand drives for his second and third woods after a short left-hand delivery with his first. But the green behaved rather badly. Coates also took forehand and planted a shot wood with his second, though it was not a particularly good one.

Grimmitt, with two front woods slightly on the backhand of the Jack, endeavoured to get a wick with his last delivery, but was short, and Coates, though getting a wide green, had just sufficient "steam" to get through for two shots and the match.

It was not a good head, but it was a speculative finish, and Coates, because of his consistency just about deserved to win.

EARLY STAGES

The early stages of the match went completely in favour of Grimmitt, who showed a preference for medium heads and quickly established a lead of six-love after four heads. Coates was bowling both narrow and short, but he came along with a neat three on the fifth head.

Coates missed a good chance of scoring on the third head when he was presented with an easy draw for shot. But he was very short and narrow, and Grimmitt chalked up a useful three.

The winner came into his own on the fifth, getting a wick off Grimmitt's second shot to tie two and then to come up with a perfect draw with his fourth wood for a three count.

Grimmitt erred in his tactics on the sixth when Coates scored a single. The Civil Service bowler had an obvious draw—and not a difficult one—but he essayed a drive and missed badly.

Then came a real tragic head for Coates. Lying three on a long head, he had the mortification of seeing Grimmitt's last wood intended as a draw, go narrow, strike a front wood and go on to dislodge Coates' shots and leave Grimmitt with about the luckiest four seen in Hongkong.

Grimmitt insisted on another long head at the 11th after he had established a 13-5 lead, but both players ran into trouble with their forehand drawing woods and a bad head ended two shots in favour of Coates, who immediately switched to flag-high heads with interesting results.

The Craigengower man added singles on the 12th and 13th heads and although Grimmitt sneaked in with a very nice shot with his second wood to stop the run, it was only temporary.

The 15th saw Coates score on a long head and then return to a short head on which he beautifully rested two woods to make the score 14-12 in Grimmitt's favour.

The ex-title holder scored a single on the 17th, but he was plainly not bowling with the confidence which infused his earlier work. He gave a medium head for the 18th and it was at this point Coates pulled out his finest bowling. Four woods in succession he planted on the Jack. Grimmitt, presented with a none-too-difficult backhand draw, chose to drive with his third delivery, but he was hopelessly wide, while he was short with his final wood.

This gave Coates the lead for the first time and he endeavoured to consolidate the position by scoring another topping three on the 19th—another flag-high head.

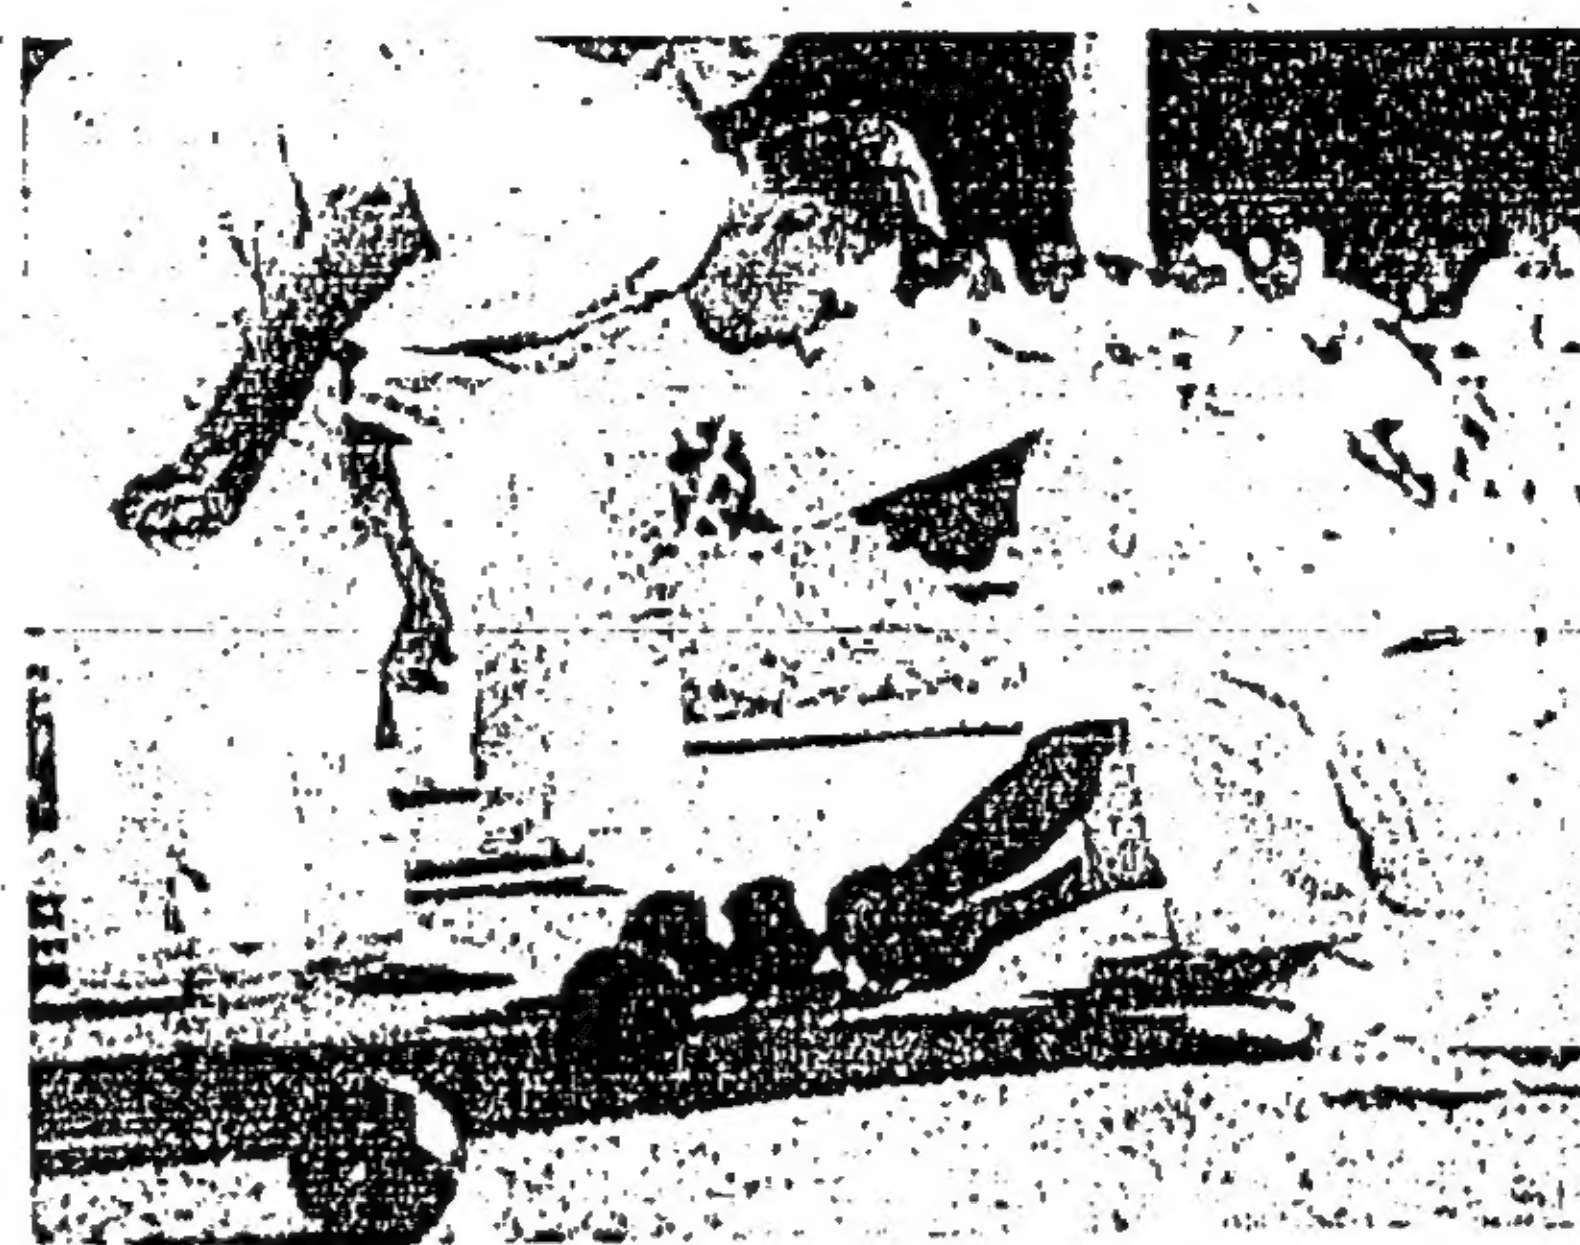

NOT YET BEATEN

But Grimmitt was by no means beaten though the score had changed from 13-5 in his favour to 19-15 for Coates. The ex-title holder replied with a three on the 20th head, though Coates, if he had attempted a backhand shot wood might have finished the match there and then. A successful delivery on this hand would have assuredly left him lying either two or three. But he preferred a right hand draw and was shockingly short. Thus reprieved Grimmitt scored again on the 21st and was level pegging at 19-19.

On the 22nd Coates had another fine chance of taking out Grimmitt's shot wood and leaving himself three, but his earlier bug—shortness in length—returned to upset his game and Grimmitt scored another single to lead 20-19.

The standard of bowling was spasmodic. It was rarely outstandingly good. But Grimmitt's early capture of the right green and accurate length put him well above Coates until that player suddenly struck form. Then, as Coates improved, Grimmitt lost touch and from the 11th head onwards, was rather disappointing.

PRESENTATION TO DAVIS CUP DONOR

NATIONS SHOW APPRECIATION TO MR. F. DWIGHT DAVIS

London, July 27.

The representatives of 23 nations participating in the Davis Cup were when a presentation was made to Mr. Dwight M. Davis, donor of the Davis Cup. The presentation was made by Sir Samuel Hoare, President of the British Lawn Tennis Association, at the Royal Hotel and took the form of a gold repeater watch with the Davis' monogram inscribed on it.—Reuter's Bulletin.

GIFT DESCRIBED

The outside case bears a representation of the Davis Cup in platinum with an inscription in Latin stating that the Cup was presented by Mr. Dwight F. Davis in the year 1900. The other case bears Mr. Davis' monogram, also in platinum, and on the inside dome there is an engraved inscription stating that the watch is presented by the Lawn Tennis Associations of the World.

It may be of interest to note that the work of inscribing the platinum is one of extraordinary difficulty and that there are few craftsmen in England who are capable of carrying it out. The work was done by a London expert, and we reproduce on this page half-size illustrations of the two outside cases and the inside dome of the watch, although, of course, these reproductions cannot give an adequate idea of the great beauty of the actual article.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP

Fred Dove was the National 100 yards swimming champion by inches in a tense thrilling race with the title-holder, Remund Gabrielsen, at the Empire Pool, Wembley, M. Y. French Williams followed closely on their heels to take third place. There has seldom been a closer struggle. At the turn Dove, Gabrielsen, French Williams, D. Young, and C. Brand touched together, but Gabrielsen made a smart turn and a speedy push-off, which took him a foot in front of his rivals. At 75 yards Brand was travelling strongly and appeared dangerous, but Dove, using his broad shoulders, got in front and stayed there to win his first national title.

MATCH

set and match at 10-8. The tie therefore rests on to-day's singles results. Britain remains in a very strong position, requiring but one of the last two singles. Austin, who so easily beat Crawford on Saturday meets Quist, while Perry, who, up to a year ago had consistently beaten Crawford, plays his arch-foe once again.

With Australian hopes revived and stimulated by yesterday's success in the doubles, there may yet be an exciting finish. But on form everything points to Austin and Perry winning their matches for a 4-1 result.

BRILLIANT TEST
CRICKET AT OLD TRAFFORDINDIA HITS BACK IN FACE OF BIG SCORE

The Old Trafford cricket ground yesterday was the scene of some brilliant cricket when the second Test between England and All-India was resumed in sunny weather, and before 6,000 spectators which later swelled to 10,000.

All-India finished the day batting a second time and being 178 runs in arrears with all wickets intact. England, facing a first innings total of 263 and having scored 173 for 2 overnight, went on to compile 571 for 8 declared. All-India, playing out time, put together 190 without loss. Here are the high spots of the day's play:

Walter Hammond, third out at 273, scored 167 in 190 minutes, hitting 21 boundaries. He reached his 150 in 170 minutes.

Hardstaff of Nottingham compiled 94 in 75 minutes, hitting an hard all round the wicket that he had 15 4's to his credit. His 50 was recorded in as many minutes.

R. W. V. Robins, Middlesex amateur, scored 70 in 75 minutes including 11 boundaries, while Verity, whose batting form this season has been an eye-opener, helped himself to 66 not out in a comparatively sedate innings which lasted 90 minutes.

Mustaq Ali hit with tremendous power once he had judged the pace of the wicket, which had played easily throughout the day and he completed his century in 135 minutes. At the close he had reached 105 having helped himself to 15 boundaries. Merchant was much more subdued, his contribution to the score being 79. Detailed scores as cabled by Reuter follow.

PADGHAM
"ARRIVES"
WITHOUT HURRYING

(By Leo Munro)

Open champion Alfred Padgham is a golfer who has arrived without hurrying. "Hasten slowly" might well be his motto.

I cannot remember the time when he was not slow and dignified in movement, deliberate in thought and speech.

But always, since early boyhood, an eager collector of golfing ideas, and in recent months an industrious collector of the game's chief prizes. He is a quiet conqueror. A tall, handsome man of nearly thirty, who holds himself well.

His expression may be too placid, too good-humoured to suggest the fighter.

But note his watchfulness, and you will get the impression of something steadfast in the man.

Watch his play. The swing, which really is a swing, and not a hit. Restrained, with an almost lazy follow-through, but the ball flies an all but incredible distance. See Padgham on the putting green.

You would not suspect delicacy of touch as those great hands take up the club.

But the delicacy is there, and the smooth, coaxing style, combining to make Padgham one of the most accurate putters in the world.

REMARKABLE CONTRAST

His putting won the championship at Hoylake. A contrast here between Padgham 1936 and Padgham 1930.

Now he takes the title with aggregate 287 for seventy-two holes. Then—the first time he qualified—he tied at 312 for thirty-eight place in Bobby Jones's championship on the Royal Liverpool course.

A summary of Padgham's progress as an Open championship player advertises his determination to advance from year to year:

Year Course Round 1 2 3 4 Ttl. Ptn.
1930 Hoylake 78 80 74 80 312 36
1931 Carnoustie 81 77 78 81 317 49
1932 Prince's 75 72 74 70 292 4
1933 St. Andrews 74 73 71 74 292 5
1934 Sandwich 71 70 75 74 290 1
1935 Muirfield 59 72 74 71 276 2
1936 Hoylake 73 72 71 71 287 1

I first spotted Padgham in the professional match-play championship at Osney in 1930, and described him as a discovery.

He has won most of the major tournaments since then—match-play title, German open, Irish open, leading up to his all but clean sweep of the first prizes this year, at Bramshot, Moor Park, Southport and Hoylake.

His game has its critics. One such said to me at Hoylake, "Take away Padgham's putting, and he wouldn't be within streets of Cotton."

But why should we take away Padgham's putting? The rest of his game is very, very good. The putting makes him a super-golfer.

Your Holiday Health

ON the SPOT

SUMMER con-sures up visions of sparkling sea and
green countryside,
and all our wher
readers are doubtless enjoying this weekend away from home
and toil and other familiar things.

I should like to dwell
on the marvelous tonic effect which change of air and change of scene
bring about, but today
our weekly talk is about other things. Sometimes accidents will happen even in the most delightful surroundings, and a little advice on First Aid
may be welcomed.

Plenty of parties are sometimes a little careless and broken bottles and the tin that has been cut open offer sharp edges to the unwary. At the seaside there is always the sea to wash these wounds, and the salt, although it stings a bit, encourages drainage, washing out any dirt that may have got in. In the country, a nearby stream or what water has remained in the kettle after tea should be used.

Cuts and Scratches

The great danger of cuts and scratches is that of getting the wound infected either from outside sources
or from the skin itself, in whose folds
numerous germs lurk.
The wound in these cases becomes poisoned, suppuration follows, and this may result in a general, septic infection of the whole limb.
Tiny wounds and scratches should be washed with tincture of iodine, which kills the germs and prevents
others from entering the wound.
Larger wounds and especially those

PHYSICIAN

with torn and ragged edges, are particularly prone to infection, and ought to be dressed with boracic lint wrung out of water as hot as can be borne. These dressings should be changed
every two hours or so.

Today is made up in small phials easily carried in a handbag or waistcoat pocket, and, if nothing else is handy, all wounds should be touched with it until you can find a chemist able to supply the requisite dressings.

The first bath of the season, particularly if taken after a heavy meal, often results in fainting
or shock. These troubles may be produced, too, by stopping far too long in the water.

Care should be taken when bathing
to see that at least two hours have passed since the last meal, and the bather should not come out of the water immediately after he has been in it.

When a shock
occurs the patient's face is always pale, the pulse is rapid and faint and breathing is shallow.
Treatment should be prompt. The patient is placed on her back with her head turned to one side in as sheltered a spot as possible. Rugs and coats should cover her, for warmth is essential. During the unconscious period nothing at all must be given by the month, because the patient cannot swallow and restoratives may go down
the wrong way.

Lemon Squash

A GLASS of lemon squash after a hot game of tennis is refreshing.
To prepare the essence, boil 1 lb. loaf
sugar and 1 pint water together for ten minutes, then leave to cool.
Mix 2 oz. citric acid with the juice of
a lemon, and add to the sugar syrup
with the pulp and juice of four lemons.
Mix thoroughly and bottle.
Allow one tablespoonful of the syrup
to a tumbler of cold water.

Restorative Measures

Recovery is usually fairly rapid. The face becomes flushed and covered with perspiration, and, generally, vomiting follows. This latter symptom is nothing to worry about, but it is important to see that the head is to one

SHOT PUT IS HER STRONG SUIT

Mrs. Gertrude Wilhelmson, Puyallup, of Washington, is regarded one of the West's best bets for the Olympic track team by virtue of her shotput mark of 40 feet 8 inches—bettering Hildrickson's mark—and her 128-foot tosses of the discus. She also finds time to keep house and care for her youngster—but she seems Berlin-bound
this season.

inhaled.
As soon as the patient has ceased being sick, hot tea or coffee should be
nothing strenuous for the rest of the day.

Strains and sprains are the most common holiday accidents. They should be bound up with cold water
bandages.
If an ankle is sprained out of doors
do not in any circumstances be persuaded to remove boots or shoes. If you do you will never get them on again because of the swelling.

The bandage in these cases should be applied on the outside of the rhe, lightly, and then soaked with cold water. This treatment makes the bandage contract so that it forms a firm support for the joint.

Men and Things Abroad

BY W. N. EWER

After four years the Japanese are still "restoring order" in Manchuria and the country is being impoverished.

FOR nearly four years now the Japanese have been "restoring order" in Manchuria.

But order seems to be still very far from being restored. Banditry still flourishes. Nor have the anti-Japanese volunteers by any means
given up the struggle.

Here are a few items of Manchurian
news, just come in by mail, for the last week of April.

Wang Tselin, the Volunteer leader,
and a small band captured trying to set fire to the Mukden Aerodrome.

Two hundred bandits raid the village of Yungtanyuan, 20 miles from Hsiao, four-hour battle with police;
28 killed. Volunteers,
under Li Hung-Kwang, attack Tungshing and capture ten guns from the Manchukuo troops;
attack and capture Kuchentseng; capture ammunition and supplies from Japanese army near Pukunpukow.

Three hundred red
"Communists" under Yang Hsiang, routed
in a combined air and land attack near Nungang, in Antung
Province.

While "order" is not
so very much restored,
economic exploitation
goes on vigorously.

Exploitation

SOME of it is constructive.
The new ports of Rashin, Yuki and Sei-
shin are being developed at a great pace.
Railway building is going on at top speed.

There is talk of immense development of cotton, tobacco and
rice production.
But side by side with this there is another kind of exploitation which is not developing but impoverishing the country.

The general complaint is not of the Japanese administrators, but of the stock of small business men and petty officials who have descended on Manchuria with the one idea of making money quickly and getting home to Japan.

In all the cities both natives and foreigners are being pushed out to make room for the Japanese.
Nothing can be obtained but
the cheapest possible Japanese goods
at the highest possible prices.

Japanese Doubts

MONOPOLIES of every kind are set up. In Harbin, for example, chimney-sweeping and ice-supply are now monopolies in
the hands of Japanese companies.
All public services are in Japanese hands; even tram conductors are Japanese.

And—most lucrative and destructive
of all trades—the drug traffic flourishes
and thrives under official protection.
It is not a cheerful outlook for the country. The good work that is being done is done on loan. Through the South Manchurian Railway the big Tokyo financiers—Mitsui, Sanwa, Sumitomo, and Yasuda—have been pouring money into Manchuria.

But the chances of these big investments paying seem rather slight; the chances of a big economic crash if the inflow of capital ceased seem very big.
Already there is a certain nervousness
in Japan itself.

The S.M.R. is now hinting that if its railways and other enterprises are to thrive under official protection.

GARDEN NOTE

STOUT new stems spring up
from the soil level at the base of blackberries and loganberries,
and tend to crowd this season's fruiting canes. Try to keep them separate, lifting the newcomers to a temporary stake.

These fruits are gross feeders, and need plenty of water, as well as a dose
of fertilizer. A mulch of manure over the surface is ideal, as this helps to conserve the moisture in the soil.

It can be lightly forked in to the top
inch or two of soil, to avoid an unpleasant appearance.

The more you feed these crops now,
the more fruit you will be able to gather.

Three Storey League

WITH September only
three months away,
and the chance of a League Assembly
long before even that, talk of League
reform is everywhere.

In the air. On the idea most advanced at the moment is that of the "three-storey League."

First storey, all members: obligation in the case of aggression,
economic sanctions,
but nothing more.

Second storey, groups
of members, who would agree, with regard to certain "victims," to give all possible material help
—loans, munitions,
etc.

Third storey, groups
who would agree, in specified cases, to come immediately with
all their forces to the assistance of the victim.

Question raised: would the United States come into a
"basement" plan?
to consultation, but not to any definite action.

Answer, I think: at present not the least chance of it.

Uniting America

THE draft agenda for the pan-American
conference has now been completed and circulated to all the Governments
concerned.

It has six sections: Organisation of peace; Neutrality; Limitation of Armaments; Judicial problems; Economic problems; Intellectual cooperation. A wide enough programme.

And Sections I and V have eight and 13 sub-sections respectively!

There is no specific reference to the League.

But under Section I come four sub-sections which raise the question of relations in Geneva. They are:

(1) Co-ordination and improvement of existing international instruments
for the maintenance of peace.

(2) Examination of additional measures for the maintenance of peace and the pacific settlement of inter-American disputes.

(3) Examination of the possibility of creating an Inter-American Court of Justice.

(4) Examination of other measures tending to a closer association of the American Republics and of their relations with other international entities.

All of which just says, "Discussion of the possibility of forming a League of American Nations" without using the embarrassing word.

After Ten Years

IGNACY MOSCICKI, who was elected President of the Polish Republic, ten years ago to-day, was a famous physicist and chemist before Pilsudski had been chosen President.

Exiled from Russia for political activities as a student, he came to London for five years to finish his studies.

His most important work was done
at Fribourg, in Switzerland, between 1897 and 1912, on the production of nitrites and nitric acid from the atmosphere.

The new processes which have revolutionised the manufacture of fertilisers and explosives owe a great deal
to Moscicki's inventions.

And his friends say that he would
far rather get back to chemistry than go on being President; only he feels
it his duty to stay where he is.

It is learned that His Lordship
Victor, Bishop of Poling and China,
the head of the Russian Orthodox Mission in China, who is on his way to Yugo-Slavia, will spend few hours
in Hongkong during the stay of the Lloyd Triestino m.s. Victoria in port on Thursday. The vessel will arrive

President Roosevelt was unanimously nominated as Democrats' candidate in the approaching presidential elections.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, American Minister in Copenhagen, has been nominated as a candidate to the vice-presidency. Mrs. Owen leaves Copenhagen shortly for America in order to be present at the electoral campaign and the elections.

American cruiser Asheville was ordered to prepare a landing party in Canton in order to protect American citizens in case of the outbreak of civil war. The occasion however, did not arise. Photo shows some of the crew of the Asheville.

The most famous Italian troops, the Bersaglieri, recently celebrated the centenary of their establishment. These Bersaglieri receive a through training in gymnastics.

Germans May Duel Again: 'Choose Your Weapons'

Berlin, July 20.

DUELLING with pistols, sabres, rapiers, cavalry swords will be legally permitted in Germany—if a new version of the German criminal code, already printed by the Ministry of Justice, is passed when it comes up before the Cabinet in about a month's time.

The duelling will have to be carried out under strict regulations and with minute formalities. Either party who breaks the regulations will be publicly ostracised.

The regulations under consideration are similar to eighteenth century duelling rules. At the outbreak of a quarrel, a court of honour will be set up to determine whether a reconciliation can be effected.

The court will listen to the version of the quarrel from both men, investigate whether the insult was delivered in cold blood or only in momentary anger, whether either party may have been drunk.

If the court decides there are sufficient grounds for a duel, the offended party chooses his weapons, both parties choose their own seconds, and the court decides the time and place.

If the court decides there were not sufficient grounds for duelling, any private fighting between the two men will be regarded as illegal, and will be met with imprisonment.

Army officers, according to the regulations, must duel with muzzle-loading pistols. Members of the other bodies may choose any of the recognised weapons.

Since 1933 members of the Black Guards and Storm Troops have not only been allowed but morally compelled to duel if a court of honour decided there were sufficient grounds.

Broken Spine, But Builds King's 'Drome

Propped up in bed suffering from a broken spine, a Leicester man supervises a big contractor's business with the aid of a telephone.

He is Mr. Ernest Bradshaw, of Bradshaw Brothers, the firm which is to improve and extend the King's private aerodrome at Smith's Lawn, Windsor Great Park.

As Prince of Wales the King made frequent use of the landing ground when he visited Windsor and returned by air to his home at Fort Belvedere.

BLOWN-UP AND BURNED

It was quite large, enough for the small types of machines which the King formerly used. He now wishes to have the ground made into an aerodrome suitable for all types of passenger planes.

Mr. Bradshaw was wounded four times in the war. At Vimy Ridge he was rescued with a broken spine.

Despite his crippled condition he has carried on the firm's business, and for several years has specialised in the laying-out of sports grounds and aerodromes.

New York, July 15.

The town of Marshfield, Wisconsin, until recently employed a municipal dog-enticer to deal with stray dogs. Then they decided to offer $5 to any one bringing a dog or its skin to the police office.

The whole population of 9,000 people became unofficial dog-enticers, and there are now practically no dogs in the town.—Reuter.

SECRET CONVENT CONFISCATED BY MEXICAN ARMY

Puebla, Mexico, July 21.

A SECRET convent attached to an apartment house here has been discovered and confiscated by the government.

In this city, known as one of the most religious in Mexico, the Convent of Santa Monica was established two centuries ago. It apparently disappeared during the church-and-state strife, but the nuns for long continued their devotion to the Sacred Heart, shut off from the outside world.

Recently there was an intense drive in Puebla for strict enforcement of the Law of the Nationalization of Property, which provides that any edifice used for extra-legal worship may be confiscated by the Federal Government.

Detectives made several visits to an innocent-looking apartment house, searched it inside and out, but left with the conviction that truly it was not the entrance to the convent.

Later, one of them returned to one of the back second-storey apartments and carefully searched the dining room. He saw a push-button on a wall, near a shelf where plates were kept. He pressed it, and a door opened. Down some steps he found the room of the Mother Superior of Santa Monica.

To-day, the convent is a museum—no new that it is not listed in any of the guide-books, but nevertheless in anybody for a fee of 20 centavos. The convent when found had 60 elderly nuns, devoted to a life of meditation, prayer and self-punishment.

Ernest Dehagen, wanted in New York in connection with the purported $11,000 extortion plot against Alfred E. Smith Jr., son of the former governor of New York, was arrested as he stepped into a postoffice in Los Angeles.

They wore black sack-cloth robes, and slept on boards, without mattresses. The Mother Superior's bathroom has a wooden stove to heat water; beside the stove was a box for wood, and behind the box is a small hole through which one may still crawl into the chapel.

The chapel is long and dark. Over each chair is a crown of thorns to be worn by the nuns during the Holy Week ceremonies. Behind the altar is a secret passage-way, leading to a place arranged high up in a church next door, so fixed that the nuns might attend mass, looking into the church through small holes, without being seen. From the chapel, through a hole and a long step-ladder, the place of meditation, dark, with its crucifix, skull and bones, and instruments for self-torture.

There are a dining-room, kitchen, lovely parlour—all of which functioned until recently without anybody in the outside world knowing about it. All the food was bought, presumably for the families in the apartment house, then smuggled through the secret entrance. Sick nuns were taken into the apartment. Those who died were buried in the catacombs down below.—United Press.

Gibraltar, July 27.

Severe fighting has been reported near Gibraltar. It is indicated that a Government force, several hundreds strong, has been completely annihilated during this afternoon's engagement near Lalinea. The rebels are believed to have lost sixty killed.

Lalinea reports that of the 300 Government supporters killed, most were Communists. Many prisoners were executed.

The Spanish loyal fleet is rushing from Tangier to Estepona to check General Franco's advance in the southern fighting sector.—Reuter Bulletin Special.

Gibraltar, July 27.

It is estimated that the casualties in a battle near Estepona are over 600 dead, including 400 Government fighters, and 1,200 wounded.—Reuter.

RECENTLY SURRENDERED

London, July 27.

The Spanish Government force which was annihilated near Lalinea consisted of loyal Carabineers and armed workers, who recently surrendered to the rebels, but who to-day suddenly appeared marching from San Roque towards Lalinea, apparently intending to attack the Moroccan forces stationed there.

Rebel troops were rushed from Algeciras and they wiped out the Government force in a two-hour hand to hand struggle.

Reserves By Air

The rebel Commander-in-Chief, General Franco, is rushing troops from Ceuta to Algeciras in big seaplanes, each carrying a score of men, with a view to beating back the Government forces at Malaga.

There has been heavy fighting at Estepona also, where there have been at least 400 casualties, and at Guadalupe, where the vanguard of the main rebel force, numbering 800 men, is reported to have overwhelmed a force of workers and loyal militia, a hundred of whom are said to have been slain, and many wounded.

Government forces have set fire to a pine woods near Estepona in order to hold up the advance of the Moroccan troops.

It is understood that twenty Communist prisoners in the barracks at Lalinea were executed last night and twenty more this morning. One hundred remain.

Madrid's Claims

Meanwhile, Madrid reports that Government troops are driving back the left wing of the rebel forces north of Madrid, towards Segovia, and are preparing to storm the heights where the rebels' main body of 800 men is holding out.

British and other Embassies have left San Sebastian, evacuating this evening, on the advice of the Government. The British Embassy has gone to Zarauz, a small town near San Sebastian. The American, Italian and Argentine Embassies and the Norwegian and Czechoslovakian Legations are going to Irun, and the French Embassy to Fontarabie.—Reuter Special.

Push Towards Malaga

Gibraltar, July 27.

Moroccan rebel troops, en route to Malaga, defeated a loyalist force this morning in a battle near San Roque, in which it is reported 200 loyalists were killed, and many wounded.

The loyalists retreated into the mountains, but reappeared in mid-afternoon and machine-gunned the advancing rebels.

Thereupon the Moroccans engaged the loyalists in a terrific hand-to-hand fight, the outcome of which is still in doubt.—United Press.

TOLEDO REBELS SUBMIT

LOYALISTS CLAIM BIG VICTORY BUT REBELS ARE STRONG

Madrid, July 28.

It is officially announced that the rebels who took refuge in Alcazar fortress in the town of Toledo have finally surrendered. The whole town is now in the Government's hands. This is regarded as a big Government success.

The Minister of the Interior in an official broadcast to-day, claimed the rebel movement had been mastered. The rebels posted in the mountains near Madrid have been compelled to retreat with heavy losses, it is claimed.—Reuter.

Considerable Success

Hendaye, July 28.

The Spanish Government appears to have scored a considerable success on Guadarrama height, where the battle which is to decide the fate of the capital is believed to be imminent. The rebel army there is stated to be almost decimated already.

But there is every indication that the struggle will develop into a war of attrition, and the side with the biggest reserve strength is likely to win.

Many Reinforcements

Observers who have flown over the rival armies report a long line of reinforcements behind the rebel forces, whereas the Government troops appear to have little backing. Besides the battle zones of Madrid and Saragossa, fresh fighting has broken out in the neighbourhood of San Sebastian and Irun. Government forces situated near San Sebastian are expecting a big rebel attack and they have broadcast a fresh appeal for volunteers.

Popular Front adherents are said to be valiantly answering the call to arms, and hundreds are passing through Hendaye to fight for the Government.—Reuter.

LOYALISTS APOLOGISE

Gibraltar, July 27.

The British destroyer Basilisk, which arrived here Sunday, reported that she was fired on while embarking twenty-eight British and twelve other refugees at Almeria.

Loyalist officers boarded the vessel later and apologised.

Madrid, July 27.

Coinciding with the Government's claims of sweeping successes, Washington has instructed the Embassy to evacuate over 100 Americans, on their own responsibility and risk, providing adequate transportation is furnished.—United Press.

AMERICANS SAFE

Washington, July 27.

The Madrid Embassy has advised the State Department that it has learned indirectly that the party of American university students, headed by Mr. Monica Owen, is safe at La Granja.

It is believed that connection with Valencia will be restored shortly. Simultaneously the Consulate at Vigo has advised that twenty-three Americans and Cubans have been evacuated in a British cruiser. Vigo, approached by an increasing number of refugees, is increasing the number of the conscript classes of 1926 to 1928.

It is feared that anarchy and mob rule will follow in the wake of the downfall of the military authorities. The U.S.S. Quincy is reported to be investigating conditions in Madrid, prior to proceeding to Alicante and Valencia.

It is learned that the Diplomatic Corps has convened in Madrid, and named a committee of seven to arrange for the evacuation of foreigners. The committee has requested a special train, with the necessary protection, and it is believed this will be forthcoming in two or three days.—United Press.

Braddock Will Meet German Before Sept. 30

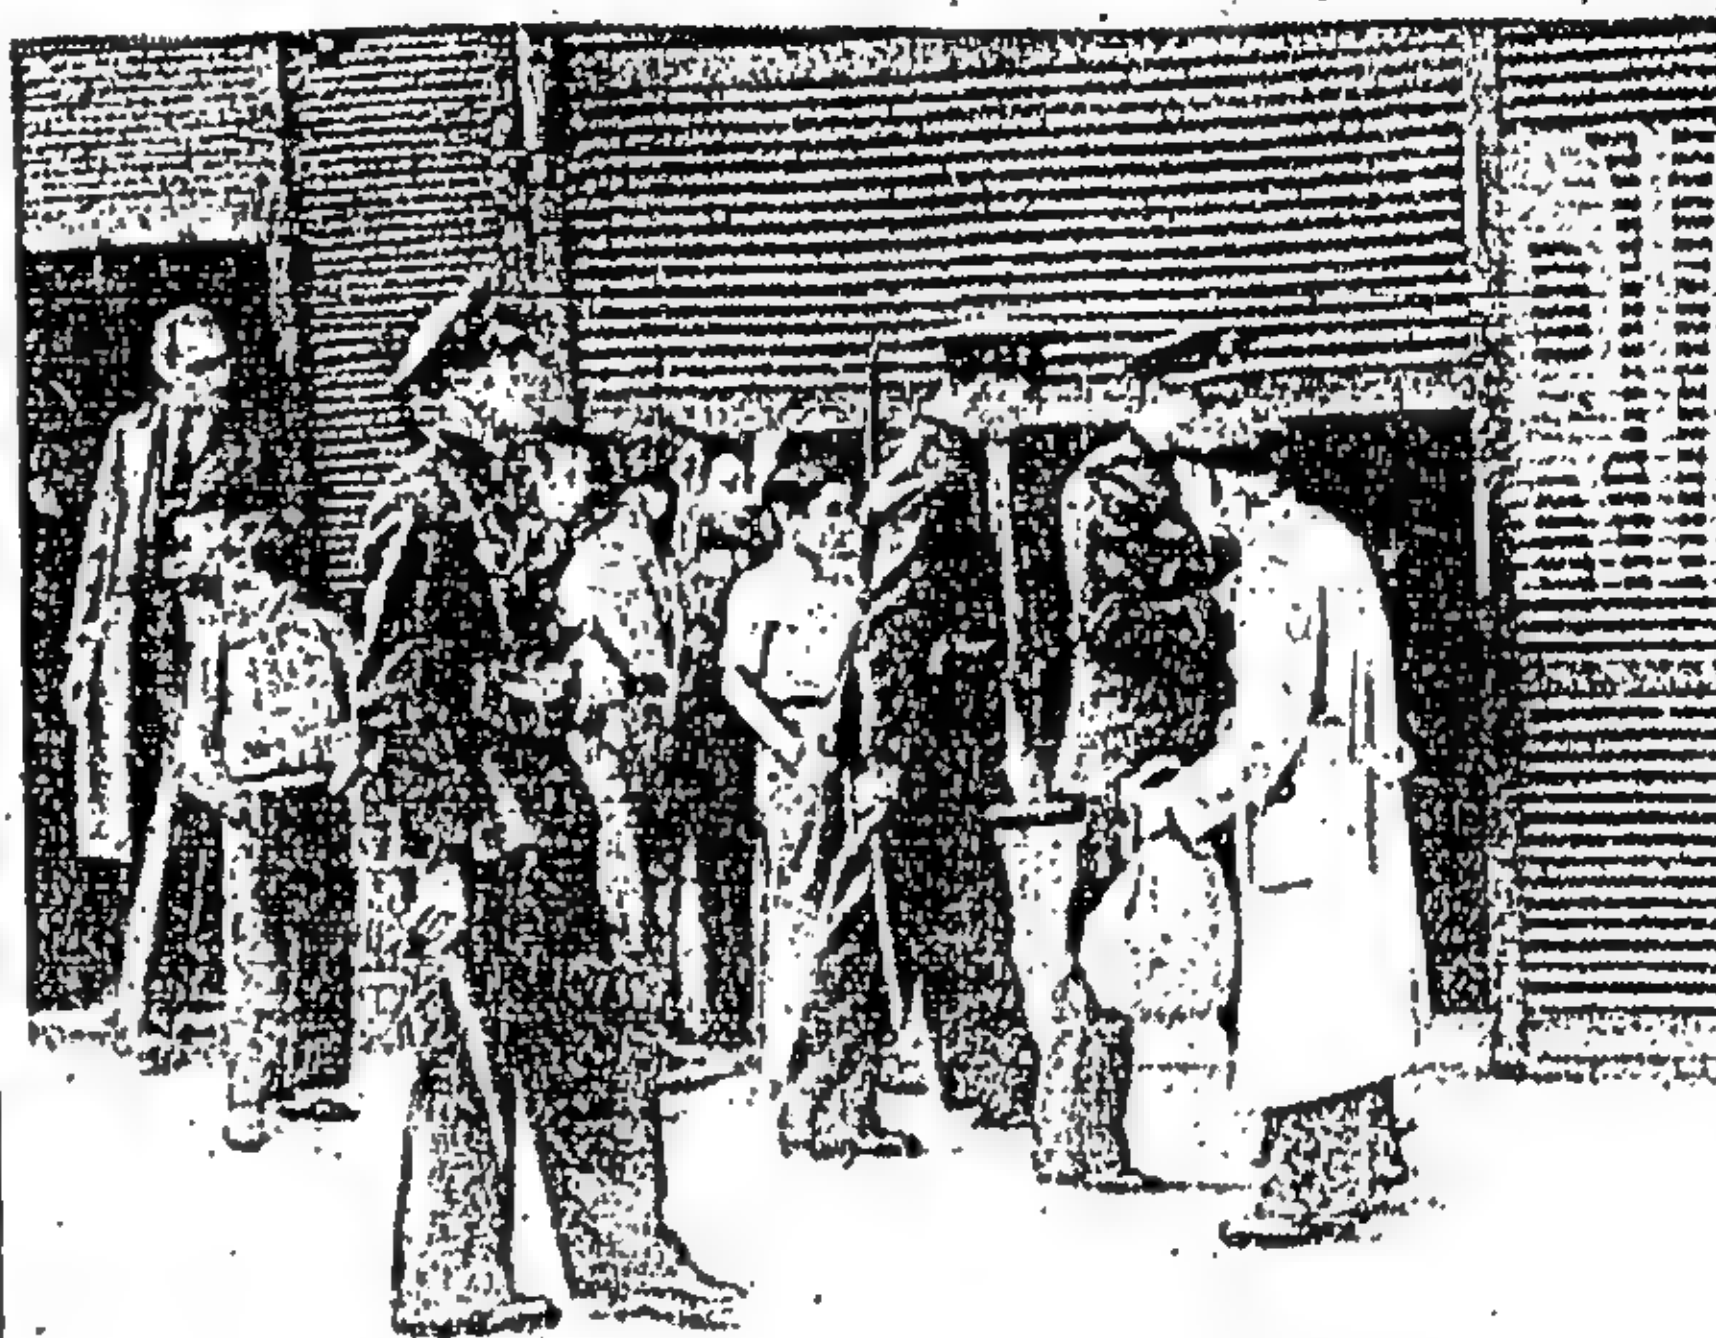

New York, July 27.

The Madison Square Garden and Twentieth Century Club have signed contracts for the joint promotion of a Braddock-Schmeling world heavyweight title bout in the Garden's Long Island Bowl.

The fight will be held between September 24 and 30.

Both the contracting parties had claims on the time of the champion, Braddock, when he next fought to defend his title and legal troubles threatened. Now they have sunk their differences, preferring to split the profits.—United Press.

SPANISH POLICE "BREAK" STRIKE

When strikers forced store-keepers in Spain to close their doors, thus causing a famine-panic in some sections, police ordered provision merchants to re-open and promised to protect them against reprisals. In the above photograph from Barcelona they are engaged in this dangerous work, which resulted in rioting and looting on a considerable scale, it is reported.

New York, July 27.

"We weren't trying for a record. When we do we will try over the Normandie's course. We are confident the Queen Mary is capable of taking the Blue Ribband of the Atlantic when the time comes," declared Sir Edgar Britten, commander of the Cunard-White Star liner, when his great ship docked to-day.

Sir Edgar added that they had lost only a few minutes through the crashing of the Boston aircraft which came to meet the ship.

But they had left Chourbourg late, in bad weather, with headwinds for the first thirty hours. They would not try for a record in those conditions, but they would try when the weather was favourable, he said.—Reuter Special.

San Francisco, July 27.

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody announced to-day that she is not playing in the national championships at Forest Hills, first because she dislikes long absences from home, second because her dress designing monopolises her time.

She did not mention a third possible reason—that her game lacks its former speed and precision.

Mrs. Moody said she hoped to compete wherever her work permits, thereby leaving the door open for future competitions in New York, London or Paris in the event that she is working on the scene.—United Press.

London, July 27.

Speaking in the debate on Foreign Office estimates to-day, the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, told the House of Commons that ever since the reoccupation of the Rhineland by German troops, the British Government has striven to start negotiations to restore the situation.

Respecting the brief meeting of the three Locarno signatories, France, Belgium, and Britain, in London, Mr. Eden said this showed the Government's constructive objective had been realised. But he pointed out that this meeting was only a preliminary stage and that much diplomatic work would be necessary before a full, five-power meeting could take place.

The Government regarded the results of the Montreux Conference, which gave Turkey the right to refortify the Dardanelles, as extremely satisfactory. It had shown that more could be gained by legal methods in treaty revision than by repudiation.

Mr. Eden stated that Italy in the middle of the present month had approached Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey and assured these Governments that Italy was not contemplating aggressive action. Italy considered the sanctions chapter closed and looked forward to a new policy of co-operation with all nations, said the Foreign Secretary.

"I am therefore glad to declare that in the view of His Majesty's Government there is no further need for the continuation of the mutual assistance assurances in the Mediterranean," said Mr. Eden.

Reform Of League

With regard to the reform of the League of Nations, Mr. Eden emphasised that the Government's objective was to widen and strengthen the basis of international collaboration, but he declined to make a detailed statement, which, he said, would only prejudice the September meeting of the League.

He indicated again the Government's willingness to discuss at an international conference the question of giving foreign countries free access to raw materials from British mandated territories and colonies.

Transfer Of Question

Turning to the question of the transfer of mandated territories, the Foreign Secretary declared that the question affected all mandatory powers.

The Government had not consulted any of these in this matter, but as far as the Government was concerned the question would inevitably raise grave difficulties of a moral, political and legal nature, to which they had been unable to find any solution.

The Government hoped, he said, that with so many international questions involved there would be no desire in any quarter to introduce further causes for serious differences between nations.

Nanking Embassy

Replying to Mr. Robert Rankin, Mr. Eden said he was unable to state when it would be possible to move the whole of the staff of the British Embassy to Nanking, as it must depend upon the construction of the necessary premises.

Up to now a site for the Embassy has not been definitely acquired, though His Majesty's Charge d'Affaires was negotiating with the Chinese Government in this connection.

Abandonment of the present Embassy in Peking was not contemplated, as important British interests in North China rendered its retention desirable.

A Liberal amendment to reduce the Foreign Office vote was defeated by 209 to 143, and thereafter the Foreign (Continued on Page 5.)

SOLICITOR'S CONDUCT DEFENDED

ANSWERS TO LAW SOCIETY CHARGE

JUDGMENT RESERVED

The motion brought by the Incorporated Law Society of Hongkong to have the name of a local solicitor struck off the rolls of the Court was continued in the Full Court, before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, and Mr. Justice J. J. Hayden, acting Puisne Judge, this morning.

The motion was brought on various grounds including allegations of "disgraceful and dishonourable conduct."

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, K.C., instructed by Mr. D. L. Strellett, of Messrs. G. K. Hall Brutton and Co., solicitors for the Incorporated Law Society of Hongkong, was in support of the motion, and the respondent was represented by Mr. Leo D'Almada, C.B., instructed by Mr. P. M. Hodgson, of Messrs. T'so and Hodgson.

Arguing on what he termed the "short agreements," Mr. D'Almada submitted that whatever charges were made in the notice of motion were fully answered in the respondent's affidavit in Paragraph 5 and also in Paragraph 7. He submitted that subsequent agreements amounted to no more than service agreements.

Even assuming that the agreements showed "impropriety," again, there was nothing to show that the agreements were carried out.

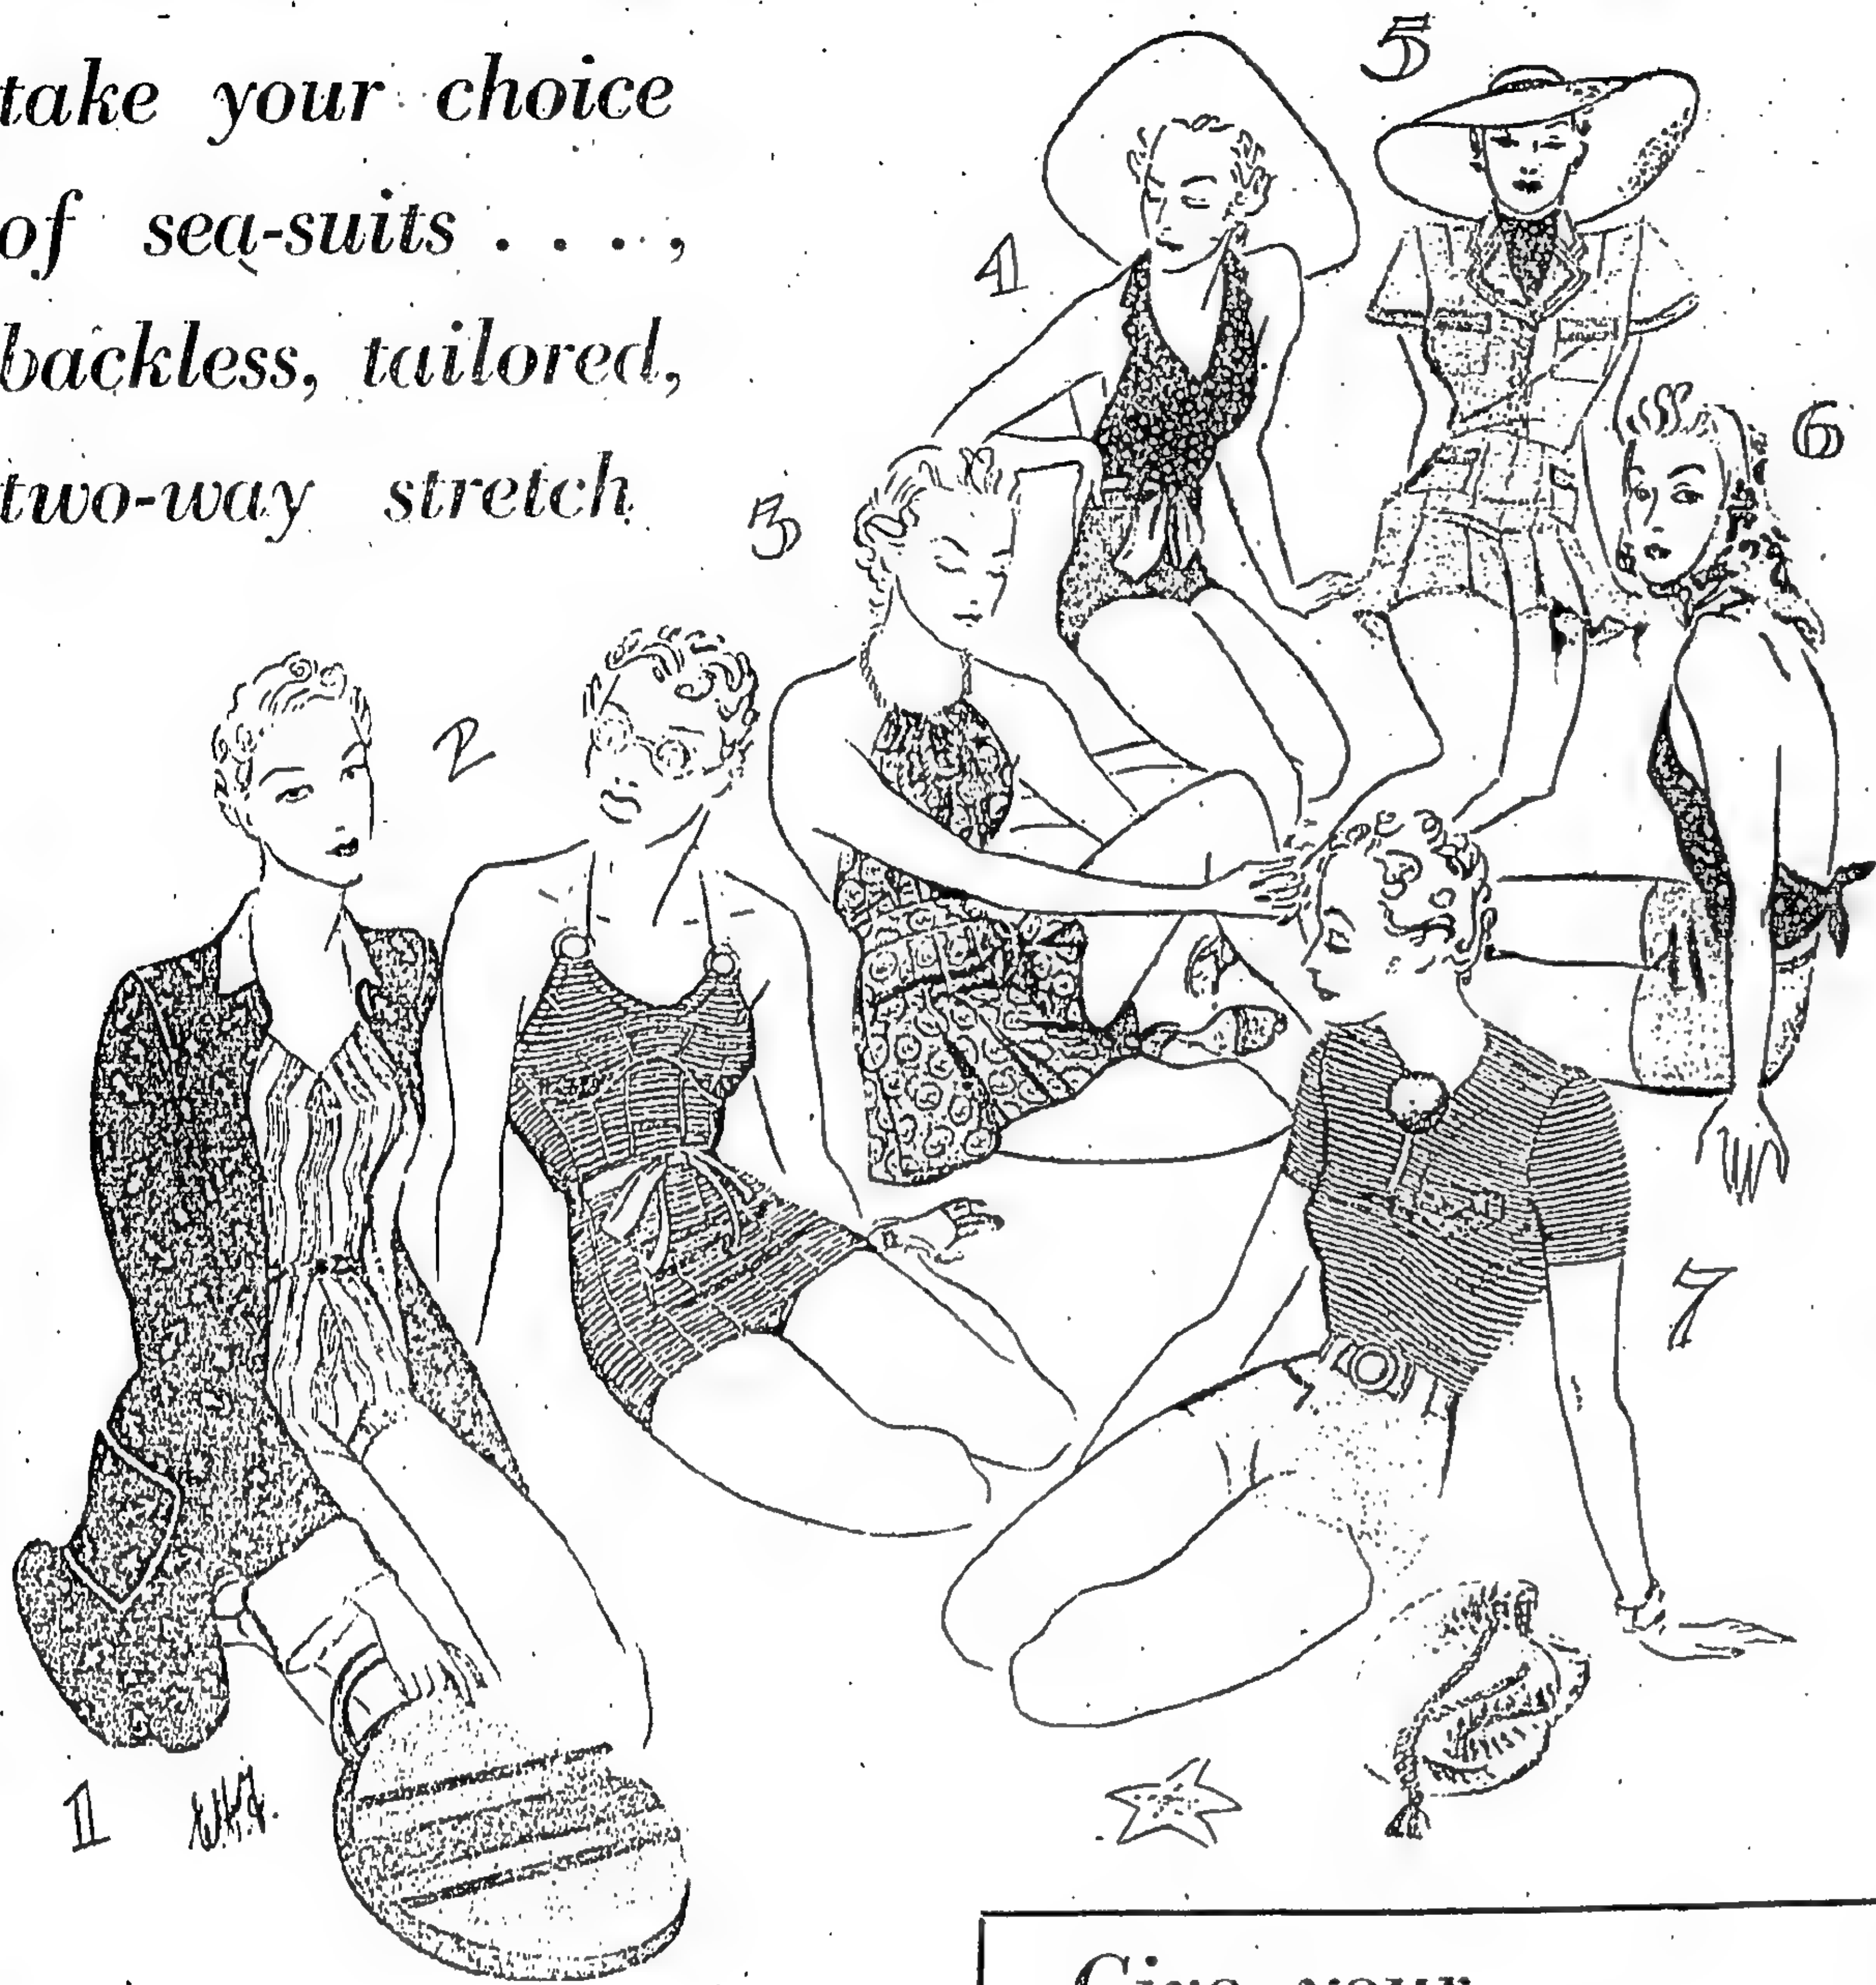

Passing to the letters written last year from England, counsel asked their Lordships whether there was a single feature in those letters which was inconsistent with the respondent's affidavit and whether the letters were not the kind of letters which could be written in such circumstances.

JOINING A FIRM

Counsel's submission was that the letters were entirely consistent with the respondent's explanation, and certain features of the letters made per cent. Respondent asked for 30 this clear. Of the profit and seven months' leave on full pay. This showed that the respondent believed (Continued on Page 5.)

Give your CUT FLOWERS a chance to live

IN hot weather choose stiff-stemmed plants, such as carnations, in preference to sweet peas, sunflowers, and so on.

Before arranging the flowers cut the stems under water and leave them to soak.

The object of cutting is to make sure that the stem cells are not sealed up, thus blocking the flow of water up the stem. Cutting under water prevents air bubbles getting into the stem and holding up the water supply.

Cut With Care And A Knife

Don't use scissors for cutting—they bruise the stem cells. Use a knife and make a slanting cut so that the cut stalks never rest flat on the bottom of the vase. Scrape a liberal allowance of bark off all woody stems.

When soaking the flowers before arranging remember that fleshy plants, such as sedum, can absorb large quantities of water and require longer soaking than thin-leaved species.

Remember also that soaking blooms and plants, such as lilies, violet, spoils their appearance. In desperate draught it merely dries them up, cases plunge the bottom inch of the stems in boiling water for a moment. After arranging the flowers continue to cut the stalks as above every day.

Dishes for Hot Days

SARAH doesn't believe in sickness and what the politicians call "laissez faire," but she does consider that in hot weather cold dishes are distinctly to be recommended.

Nobody wants to work in a hot kitchen all day, she says, if by making a nice cold dish and putting it in the larder or refrigerator you can have a really good and pleasant meal.

Here, then, are some of the tasty little cold dishes that Sarah would like to make, and which I am sure you will enjoy.

Crab Mayonnaise

Have enough crab-meat to fill two breakfast cups and mix it thoroughly with one tablespoonful of olive oil and three of vinegar, a teaspoonful each of salt and made mustard, half a teaspoonful of finely-chopped parsley, a dash of cayenne pepper and one hard-boiled egg chopped up finely.

Arrange this mixture on a dish, cover it over with thick mayonnaise sauce and make, if you like, a crisp-crust design of anchovy fillets on top.

Haddock A la Tartare

Cook a good-sized smoked haddock, flake the flesh and arrange it on a dish in a heap.

Make a thick Tartare sauce (that is, a mayonnaise sauce, to which you have added chopped gherkins, capers, parsley, chervil and tarragon; or you can now buy it in bottles, I believe), and pour it over the heap of fish. Decorate round with slices of tomatoes and hard-boiled eggs.

Devilled Eggs

Ingredients: Six eggs, 3 tablespoonfuls cream of the milk; 1 tablespoonful Worcester sauce; 1 level dessertspoonful of butter; 1/2 teaspoonful each of salt and finely chopped parsley; 1/4-teaspoonful dry mustard.

Method: Hard-boil the eggs and cut them in half lengthwise. Mash up the yolks well and blend with them the above ingredients.

Pile this mixture up on each egg-half, arrange them on a bed of lettuce or mustard and cress, and sprinkle over with very finely chopped green part of spring onions, or with chives, if you have any.

Ham Mousse

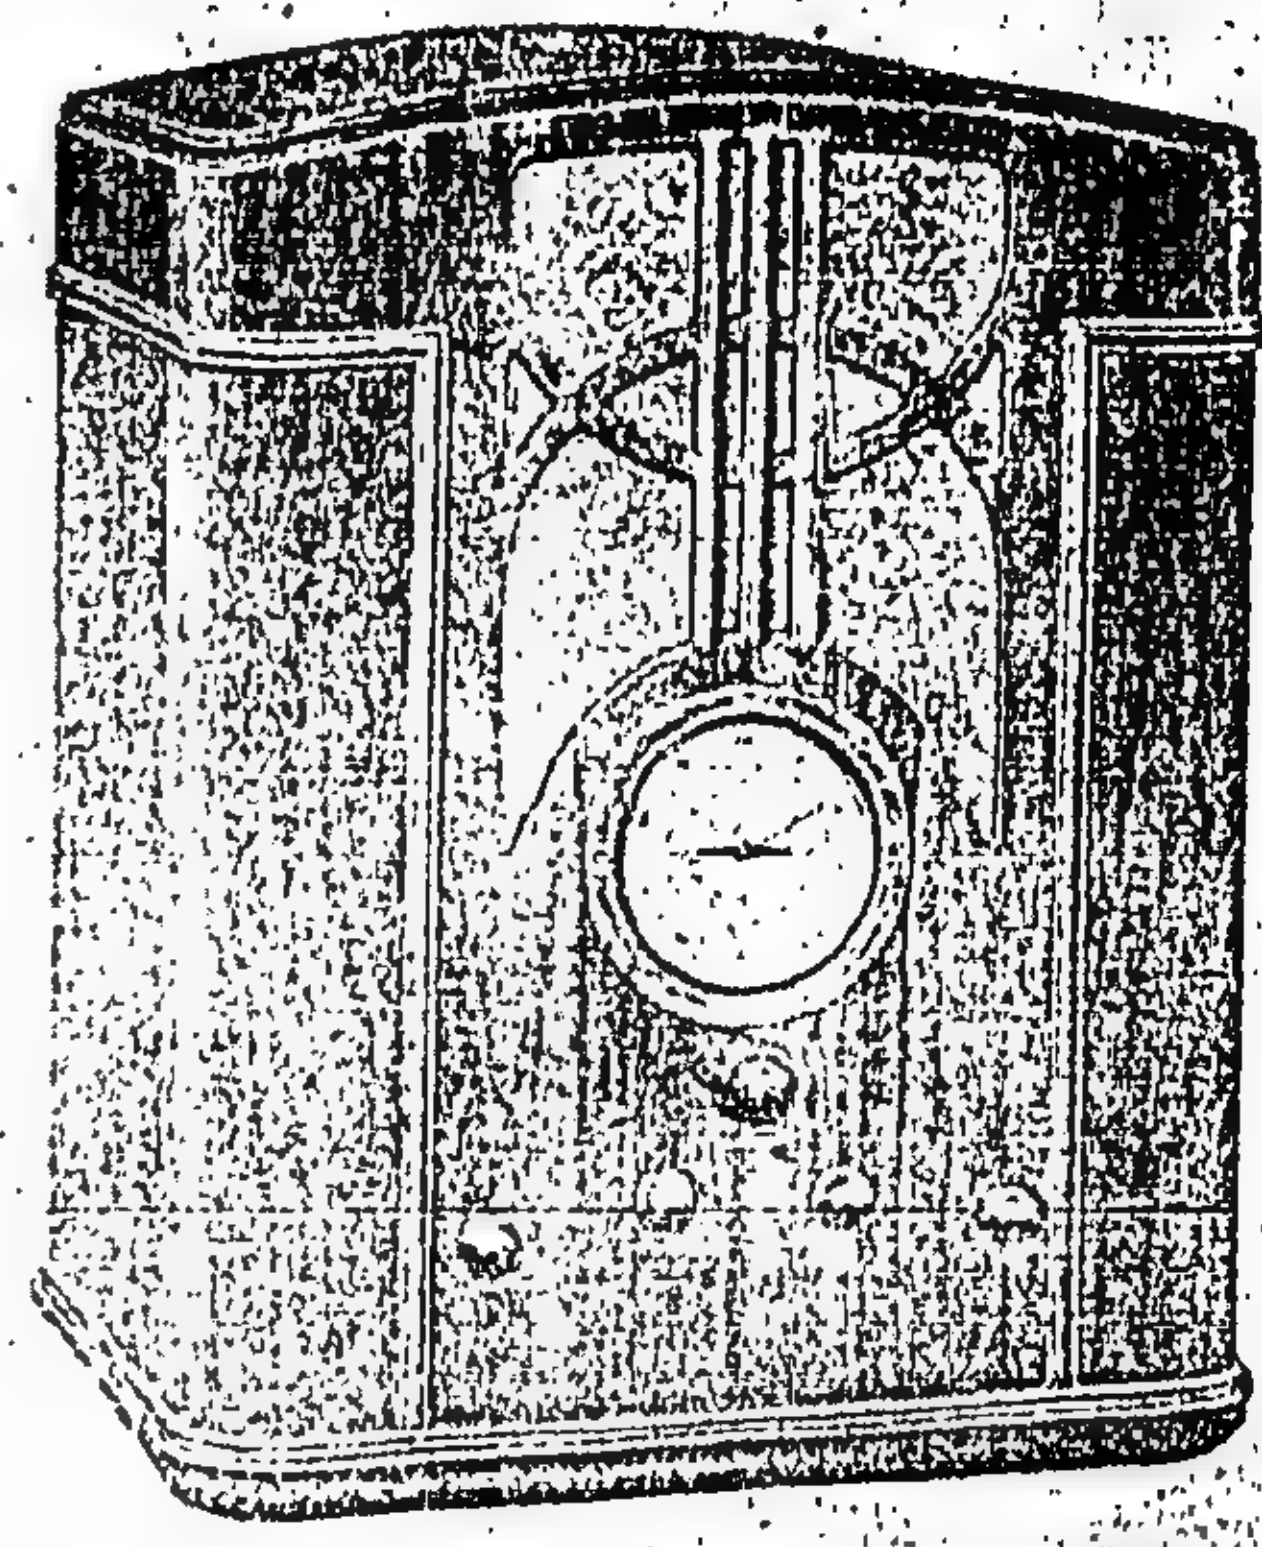

Ingredients: 2 breakfastcupfuls of chopped cold ham; a teaspoonful of made mustard; half a cupful of double cream; half a cupful of boiling water; a tablespoonful of gelatine powder soaked in a tablespoonful of cold water.

Method: Add the gelatine and water to the boiling water and when it has dissolved add it to the ham, which you have pounded as finely as possible. Add the mustard, a dust of cayenne and the stiffly-beaten cream. Put into a mould which has been rinsed in cold water and when it is cold turn the mould out.

Cold Meat In Jelly

A very pleasant way of serving slices of cold meat is to arrange them on a dish (on which you have first set a thin-layer of meat jelly made with good clear-meat stock and gelatine), garnish them with any nice cooked vegetables you have, carrots cut in pretty shapes, peas, French beans, asparagus tips, or even hard-boiled eggs. Then cover the whole thing with cooled liquid jelly and keep cold until wanted.

Soft poached eggs can be served cold in the same way.

NEW YEAR HONOUR—AWARD ERASED

CANCELLATION of the award of a New Year Honour was notified in the London Gazette recently.

"The King" has directed that the appointment of Frank Jago Munford to be a Member of the Civil Division of the Order of the British Empire, dated January 1, 1918, shall be cancelled and annulled, and his name erased from the register, in consequence of his having been convicted by the civil power."

Women Insist On Rights At Coronation

SO many women are claiming their rights to perform services of honour at the Coronation next year that the problem for the Lords Commissioners now is not so much "Have women the right?" to join in the ceremonial, but "Have they the strength?"

The Lords Commissioners, appointed by the King in his last proclamation to examine the rights and privileges of those whose families have performed services of honour at Coronations, are faced with an increasing number of claims.

The war eliminated a great many male heirs of Britain's good families. In the past when the rights rested on a woman she was required to name a male deputy. This was the custom at the last two Coronations. Since then women have come into their own.

SEALED CLAIMS

Scores of sealed envelopes received by the commissioners from family solicitors contain women's claims.

If women are allowed to exercise their rights, then the King may have some attending him at the Coronation.

Can a woman be trusted to carry a heavy sword of state erect for nearly two hours?

That is one problem to be settled.

SCOTLAND'S NEW MONSTER

Fraserburgh, Aberdeenshire.

The crew of the drifter Coral Bank returning here to-day gave graphic details of a weird monster which they assert was seen among the fishing shoals.

The monster was described as "like a seal followed by two of the young," about 40ft. long, with a head and neck camel-like and carried out of water, two or three humps on its back, and of uniform grey from the neck.

Blind Builder

Blind since 8, Leo Anderson, 33, of Berkeley, Calif., who makes his living as a mason and automobile mechanic, has started work on his life's ambition—building a power cabin cruiser. Doctors say he'll never see the results of his craftsmanship, but friends insist it'll be a real job when completed.

WAYS FOR RHEUMATISM

Red hot bricks can be used as a form of treatment, according to Dr. Matthew B. Ray, senior honorary physician to the British Red Cross Clinic, for rheumatism. He makes his recommendation in an article published in the British Medical Journal.

The technique, one expert recalled to a press representative is that used by prehistoric man 500,000 years ago for cooking his food.

Dr. Ray's formula is simple: Make two bricks red hot in a fire and place them at the bottom of an old bucket. Cover this support the limb to be treated, covering it the while with blankets.

INFRA-RED RAYS

"A knee, elbow, wrist, ankle, foot, or hand," he says, "can thus be exposed to infra-red rays, which are just as effective as those derived from a more expensive electrical apparatus."

This is only one form of many apparently strange treatments that have lately been recommended for rheumatism. Colloidal gold is favoured by some authorities; ozone baths by others. Bee stings have been tried with success in certain cases, and good results have been claimed with ultra-short radio waves.

High frequency electric currents have been used to supply internal heat to the afflicted joint, and whiskey (less now than formerly) to supply heat to the whole body. Lemons have been favoured by some authorities because of their potassium content and condemned by others on the score of their acidity. Many countrymen still believe to-day in the efficacy of the potato.

An American doctor has claimed to be able to cure practically any form of rheumatism by massaging the ankles and there are West Country practitioners who prescribe elder. As for baths, the experts of the Red Cross Clinic tell us that the waters of London are as good as any—provided that the treatments are correctly given.

HE HAS 100 SECRETARIES

By CLIFFORD LEWIS

ELY CULBERTSON, the man who made 20 million people bridge-crazy, is to-day earning £100,000 a year.

Yet three years after the war he was living on £2 a week, sometimes wondering where he would find his next meal.

Ely Culbertson, who is staying in a luxury suite at a London hotel, told me the astonishing story of his climb from obscurity.

"My father, a Russian merchant, had a fortune of a million pounds," he said.

"He lost it all in the Revolution. I was plunged into poverty. I lived on £2 a week when I was lucky—more often less than that."

"In 1921, penniless, I walked into the Knickerbocker Club, New York, where a friend was going to buy me a meal. There it was suggested I should teach America the science of European Bridge playing."

"My wife thought I had the makings of a great bridge tutor. I took her suggestion. We worked for years devising a scheme."

A Millionaire

"I tried to put it across—unsuccessfully. Finally, I hired a publisher myself—and gave my system to the world."

"In ten years I was a millionaire." To-day Ely Culbertson has 100 secretaries.

His gross income is more than £100,000 a year.

He makes £24,000 from books.

£12,000 from articles syndicated in 170 American newspapers.

£6,000 from 36 lectures a year.

A million of his books have sold in two years, bringing him an income of £40,000 a year.

Thousands pour in from cigarette card tips and endorsements. It costs him £6,000 a year to answer his correspondence.

Recipe For Success

"I care nothing for money—I don't consider I have yet started to make it," he continued.

"Anyone can be rich. There is only one never-failing recipe for success—don't think about making money. Strive for technical supremacy in your particular field. Money will then follow."

"The number of hours you work is immaterial. I work hard—16 hours a day—because I like it."

"People who slave all day in routine jobs are doomed—they're like pit horses trudging in circles."

"I have a wonderful wife and two fine children—but until a year ago I was very unhappy. I was always ill because I used up all my nervous energy in my work."

HYPNOTIST CHIEF OF MURDER GANG

Stockholm, July 21.

CAPTURED for the killing of a bank porter who had been robbed of £1,000, a gang of five men—led by a homeopathist, aged 28, who hypnotised his patients—has confessed to a series of hitherto unsolved murders here.

The men are aged between 19 and 29, and so sinister have their exploits been that Swedish newspapers are discussing the necessity of reintroducing capital punishment, abolished more than 30 years ago.

Huge crowds, angered by the terror reign the gang had upheld for six years, cried: "Kill them... kill them..." when the murderers were taken to prison in police motor-cars.

The gang's confessions include: Their first murder—in 1930 they shot the chauffeur of a hired motor-car because he heard their plans for robbing a big dairy. As he did not die from his wounds they drowned him in a river. Killed a Housemaid.—Dressed as policemen they induced the man in charge of a mine to let them into his house, where they shot him and his housekeeper, and stole roughly £550 in miners' wages before setting the house on fire. Gassed Woman.—They killed a rich and aged peasant woman—a patient of their leader—in her lonely cottage by leading a tube from their motor-car exhaust to the woman's bedroom. Here again they set the house on fire.

300 Gigolos Start "Sit-out" Strike

Nice, July 20.

Three hundred professional men dancing-partners in Riviera night clubs, cabarets, and casinos stopped dancing to-day and began a "wallflower" strike.

They demand shorter hours, permission to sit at their clients' tables and a minimum wage of 11s. a night.

Yacht's World Trip To Give Screen Realism

Southwick (near Brighton), July 15.

Athens, a small, elegant yacht of 75 tons, dropped anchor off Southwick to-day and waited for the tide so that she could enter harbour and all but complete a voyage which may revolutionise the film industry.

This yawl-rigged craft, flying the American flag, has the world in celluloid stowed away in a wonderful laboratory which has been built and equipped near her comfortable saloon.

She has come from Los Angeles by way of the Pacific, Hongkong, the China Seas, the Indian Ocean, and the Mediterranean.

Her owner is Mr. Tay Garnett, who directed "China Seas," with Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery.

HE WANTS REALISM

He is out to put realism on the screen. He wants pictures to have real backgrounds. He began this trip because he was tired of the make-believe of many Hollywood sets. "We have travelled nearly 10,000 miles," Mr. Garnett said to-day, "and I have exposed 60,000 feet of film which will be used as backgrounds for pictures."

"When we produce a picture of India it will be the real India—we show. I have been to Hawaii, Indo-China, China, Japan, India, the Malay Peninsula, the Red Sea—everywhere we could go."

"This expedition has been highly expensive, but if I succeed—I have succeeded—it means that the man who produces his film backgrounds at home is done for."

"I have already sent home prints of the film I have taken, and in the picture 'Trade Winds,' for instance, I show half the world—America, China, Japan, Straits Settlements, Penang, Ceylon, India and the Andros Islands."

"World Cruise" is another picture that will include the world in reality. It includes many inland scenes."

FEELINGS ON EVE OF DEATH

NURSE'S REMARKABLE LAST LETTER

TOOK AN OVERDOSE OF DRUG

HER feelings on the eve of death were described by a nurse, stated to be a drug addict, in a farewell letter which was quoted at a Westminster inquest.

"It is quite safe so far," she wrote. "Very bad night... Feeling terrible... Still can't eat without being sick... Tried some cocaine to keep going to-day."

It was revealed that the woman, Miss Mary Morgan, 34, employed at a nursing-home in Park-lane, W., had died from the effects of an overdose of drugs.

She was in Government nursing service in West Africa, being invalided home last year.

She had suffered from malaria, depression, insomnia, and pneumonia. Medical evidence showed that Nurse Morgan had been taking morphine.

NOT ABLE TO SLEEP. In his summing-up the coroner, Mr. Ingley Odell, remarked that Nurse Morgan had suffered dreadfully from sleeplessness and felt she was unable to continue her work.

She left many letters, and in one to a doctor, wrote: "If ever you read this I shall be dead."

She referred to the terrible suffering she was undergoing owing to the deprivation of morphine and not being able to sleep.

On the back of an envelope she had described her symptoms.

German and Italian sympathisers with the Monarchist and Fascist movement to send help to the other side, thus creating a delicate international position which could easily grow into an international disaster. Furthermore, the fact that the Spanish Leftists are so bitterly and cruelly persecuting the Church, not stopping at the murder of priests and the terrorising of convents, no French Government in its right senses would be likely to risk offending a great Catholic population at home in order to defend a principle which in no way affects its own honour, security or prestige.

that he was joining a firm of solicitors, because no firm of solicitors could follow one solicitor to go on seven months' leave without other solicitors to carry on.

Referring to the agreement, counsel pointed out that they had been loosely worded, which was a strong point in favour of the respondent, because if there was any probability of their coming into the hands of the Incorporated Law Society, the respondent would have been more cautious. Counsel submitted that it was a perfectly bona fide belief on respondent's part that he was joining a firm of solicitors; he also reminded them of the fact that what was done had been done with out any secrecy at all. He submitted that the letters were an equally consistent with respondent's explanation as with any other.

Counsel then went on to ask whether respondent's conduct in Hongkong, ten years ago was such as to merit the punishment which the applicants in the case were asking their Lordships to inflict. He submitted that it was not. Also there was no suggestion of anything against the respondent in the interval between 1926 and the time he wrote these two letters, and this interval must be taken into consideration in his favour.

WOULD MEAN RUIN

Counsel submitted that if respondent was guilty of impropriety, he could not put it any higher than the interest of the public was sufficiently safeguarded by the publicity already given to the matter. Hongkong was a small place and there was no guarantee that the public did not know against whom the proceedings were instituted. So far as other members of the profession were concerned, ventilation of the matter was ample safeguard in a place like Hongkong. Striking off the rolls would mean ruin to the respondent, said counsel.

If there was any misconduct, the respondent would be sufficiently punished by an order, he knew of such an order in England—that respondent should pay the costs of the proceedings. If the step did not appeal to their Lordships, there was this other alternative—suspension for the shortest of periods. This would be entirely adequate and must command itself to their Lordships because it would give the respondent an opportunity of redeeming himself in the future. In saying that, counsel did not wish their Lordships to be under the impression that he thought the respondent deserved any punishment at all.

In conclusion, Mr. D'Almeida submitted that the applicant requested a greater minimum of proof than that they had brought before the Court to support their charges, and he would say that they had failed to prove their case.

After Mr. Sheldon had quoted several authorities in support of his contentions, the Court adjourned. Judgment was reserved.

A woman, Chuen Mui, was charged before Mr. Burgess at the Central Magistracy this morning with having in her possession, 269 counterfeit five-cent pieces. Defendant had the money on her at No. 32 New Market Street, when Chief Revenue Officer Ward searched the house for tobacco. She pleaded not guilty, but after a lengthy hearing she was sentenced to four months' imprisonment.

Offer To Surrender

Gibraltar, July 27. Rebels report that the crew of the warship Jaime I, following a bombardment of the rebel coast positions Saturday, offered to join the revolt in exchange for food and supplies.

It is said that General Franco declined the offer.

The crew of the Jaime I are said to have attacked their officers when the ship first declared for the revolution, and to have thrown some of them overboard. They have been fighting the ship for the Government since.—United Press.

Rebels Surrender

Madrid, July 27. The Government claims that rebel forces have surrendered Toledo and Alcazar.

Broken Spine, But Builds King's Drome

Propped up in bed suffering from a broken spine, a Leicester man supervises a big contractor's business with the aid of a telephone.

He is Mr. Ernest Bradshaw, of Bradshaw Brothers, the firm which is to improve and extend the King's private aerodrome at Smith's Lawn, Windsor Great Park.

As Prince of Wales the King made frequent use of the landing ground when he visited Windsor and returned by air to his home at Port Helvedere.

BLOWN UP AND BURNED

It was quite large enough for the small types of machines which the King formerly used. He now wishes to have the ground made into an aerodrome suitable for all types of passenger planes.

Mr. Bradshaw was wounded four times in the war. At Vimy Ridge he was rescued with a broken spine. Despite his crippled condition he has carried on the firm's business, and for several years has specialised in the laying-out of sports grounds and aerodromes.

Area of Opportunity

London, July 27. A long and important speech, in which he reviewed many different aspects of the foreign situation, was made by the Foreign Secretary in opening a House of Commons debate to-day. Mr. Eden began his account of the recent London Conference by recalling the efforts of the British Government, ever since the German reoccupation of the Rhineland, to restore confidence and make of an area of difficulty an area of opportunity. It has been in that spirit that the Government in March addressed certain questions to the German Government, questions which were neither acrimonious nor inquisitive but represented an honest endeavour to facilitate progress. Had they received an early and constructive reply, it would have saved much time.

It was the same spirit that the agenda of the Three-Power meeting in London was conceived. He thought they were entitled to say that the outcome of that brief meeting in London would show how completely the constructive objective which they had in view was realised. That this result should have been possible was mainly due to the far-seeing statesmanship and generous collaboration shown by the French and Belgian Ministers. The communiqué issued at the end of the meeting, said Mr. Eden, "shows that we now look definitely to the future and do not confine ourselves to the past."

The Foreign Secretary emphasised that the desire to reach a European settlement was as keenly felt by the British and Belgian Ministers as by the French. In expressing the hope that the invitation addressed to Germany and Italy would receive a favourable answer, Mr. Eden stressed the great amount of preparatory work to be done through diplomatic channels before a Five-Power meeting could usefully take place. But though many obstacles yet remained to be surmounted, they had reached a position where a genuine spirit of collaboration existed among all concerned.

Value Of Conference

In the course of a statement on the new Straits Convention, agreed to at Montreux, Mr. Eden said the most important lesson of the Conference was that it had been shown that treaty revision by negotiation and agreement, in accordance with normal procedure and the principles of international relations, could lead to a settlement more favourable to all concerned than the method of repudiation of treaty engagements by unilateral action. The conference had undoubtedly brought about a closer and more cordial understanding between the British and Turkish Governments.

Later in his speech the Foreign Secretary referred to unilateral declarations extending the assurances given to certain Mediterranean Powers during the period of economic sanctions to the period of uncertainty following their termination, and said: "It is a matter of regret that the Italian Government made to the Governments of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey spontaneous declarations, the substance of which has since been communicated to me in London by the Italian Charge d'Affaires. From this communication, it emerges clearly, that the Italian Government have themselves given to each of these three Governments the most clear assurances that Italy could never, under any circumstances, contemplate any aggressive action against any of them in retaliation for sanctions. The Italian representatives in each of the three capitals have also emphasised that Italy considers the sanctions chapter as being definitely and completely over and looks confidently forward to a new period of mutual co-operation between all nations. I am glad therefore to recognise and declare that, in the view of the Government, there is now no further need for the continuance of unilateral assurances."

Spanish Situation

After declaring the satisfaction of His Majesty's Government at the progress made in the Treaty discussions with Egypt, the Foreign Secretary turned to the situation in Spain. Sharp and very bitter fighting was still going on there, following a sudden and widespread revolt, and Hongkong rainfall for the 24-hours ending at 10 a.m. to-day totalled 0.20-inch. The total since January 1 is 92.87 inches, against an average of 61.34 inches.

It was not possible to forecast what its outcome would be. After detailing the measures taken for the safety of British nationals in the case of disorder, Mr. Eden said he had telegraphed to the Spanish Foreign Minister on this matter, and he was glad to say the Spanish Government had accepted all the points put to them, within the limits of their capacity.

The local situation in Madrid, at the time he had received this message, was quiet, and the Diplomatic Corps were in communication with the Spanish authorities with regard to arrangements being made for the transfer of British representatives from Madrid to Valencia. Whether it had been possible to carry this through, he had no information.

Towards the close of his speech, the Foreign Secretary dealt in rapid succession with a number of subjects, including mining, railways, and reform of the League. On the last point he declined to define the Government's attitude while consultations were still going on. Speaking of the transference of mandated territories, Mr. Eden declared that any question of transfer would be dealt with as other difficulties, moral, political and legal, for which His Majesty's Government must frankly say they had been unable to find any solution.

Raw Materials

His Majesty's Government therefore hoped that with so many other international questions still unresolved, there would in no quarter be a desire at this time to introduce a further cause of differences between nations. Mr. Eden emphasised the distinction between questions of transfer and the question whether arrangements were necessary or desirable for giving all countries freer access to raw materials produced in mandated territories or in colonies. The Government were fully prepared to discuss the latter question at some international conference under the League of Nations, and an approach might well be made, in their view, at the forthcoming Assembly meeting.

Twitting the Opposition with inconsistencies alleged in its attitude to the Government's disarmament programme, Mr. Eden said the arrangements for which they were asking would never be used for a purpose inconsistent with the League Covenant or the Pact of Paris. They might be used in coming to the help of a victim of aggression. But they would never be used in a war of aggression.

Disarmament

The Minister added that it would clearly remain the duty of the Government to seize any opportunity for limitation of armaments. It was possible that an opportunity might come sooner than some people thought, for the pressure on economies of nations was extremely severe, and that might come to be appreciated even in those quarters where it would be ridiculed at the present time. They would not, however, in the present troubled state of the world, aid the course of disarmament by a blind refusal to take note of events. They lived in a Europe, concluded Mr. Eden, suffering from a total eclipse of freedom, a Europe where there was a tendency for extremes to rule—extremes with which no section in that House could feel sympathy. Their liberties, which they meant to maintain, carried with them responsibilities. Democracies must show unity if they were to survive and hand on to later generations the liberties of which they were proud.—British Wireless.

CORRESPONDENCE

Queen's Theatre

To The Editor, Hongkong Telegraph

Sir.—Referring to the announcement in to-day's paper in connection with the rent of the Queen's Theatre, we shall thank you to make the following correction:

Cinemas Ltd. entered into a lease at a rental of HK$5,500 for the building and a rental of HK$2,800 for the fittings contained therein; an interest-carrying deposit of HK$40,000 was paid in cash. When Cinemas Ltd. came to take possession it was discovered that the contents necessary for the running of the theatre, and which we had contracted for in our "Fittings" rental, were not the property of the landlord and a further payment had to be made to the late tenants, the Hongkong Amusements Co., before these could become landlord property. The landlord having no funds, Cinemas Ltd. paid further HK$38,000 and deducted this advance from the landlord by instalments from the rental due.

When the novelty of "talkies" had worn off and also the depression hit Hongkong, it was found that the Company could not continue to pay this rental agreement of HK$38,000 per day, plus Government rates of HK$1,100 per month, and a reduction was asked for.

The landlord agreed, conditional on Cinemas Ltd. forfeiting the cash deposit of HK$40,000, which legally became the property of the landlord, to pay the full rental when due—and waiving of interest due on such deposit and waiving the unpaid balance of HK$38,000 paid to Hongkong Amusements Ltd., such unpaid balance being HK$1,000; and we were given the lease for the balance of the term, i.e. 2 years, at a rental of $6,000 per month. The Hongkong Government agreed to accept the amended rental figures as the basis for rates from then on, so the monthly rates were reduced to HK$500. We applied to the Government for a reduction in the Amusement Tax, but were unsuccessful. Business continued to be bad, so we again applied to the landlord for further concession and suggested they should appoint any auditor they wished to inspect our books and arrive at a rental the theatre could afford to pay; and we said we did not want a rental figure that would leave any profit to us (we hoped business would improve in due course in this respect) but at the same time we wanted a figure that would not result in continual losses. The landlord's representative undertook to put this offer before his Board, but, hearing nothing further, we wrote on Friday last asking for an answer. Without any such answer, without any warning, and without any Court order, the landlord's collector sent a representative on Saturday morning to close up the theatre and would permit no further shows. The amount due to the landlord in full was $8,000, the major portion of which was due for July rent and had to be paid on or before July 21, and of course they were legally within their rights to take possession on July 25. We offered to pay this overdue rent by Monday, July 27, but our offer was refused. We asked to be permitted to keep the theatre open for Saturday and Sunday, as we were showing a first class picture and the weather was good for cinema business (i.e. raining); but permission was refused. Appeals were made to the landlord's solicitors to permit the theatre to be kept open. In order that the staff could be paid, as otherwise they would be thrown out of employment without any funds; but permission was refused and the theatre was closed up and remained idle.

Cinemas Ltd., J. E. NORTON Junr., Secretary.

Broadcasting And Brothels

Sir.—A vote of thanks is undoubtedly due to those responsible for arranging the broadcast relay from the 30 Hong Theatre last night.

It was illuminating; inasmuch as it conclusively demonstrated the studios care and meticulous attention to our wireless needs exercised by the broadcast committee.

When I write that the relay in question dealt exclusively with the tragedy and doubtful romance of an unfortunate brother inmate and one of her many admirers—with a well-planned murder thrown in for good measure—I feel confident that the above-suggested vote will receive unanimous support from the wireless-using local public.

Incidentally, the play relayed could give Ibsen's "Ghosts" points in the matter of plain speaking and still win handsly.

ENSURING NATIONAL SECURITY

When we think of the measures which are being taken in the Old Country for ensuring national security, we are apt to overlook the point that "defences" have to be interpreted in the broadest manner possible, so as to include civilians as well as soldiers, and food as well as ammunition and aeroplanes. In the plans upon which the Government has now embarked, all aspects of the issues involved are being kept well in mind, and it is noteworthy also, in regard to aerial defence, that local authorities are showing a marked willingness to co-operate to the fullest extent in the measures being taken. There are still a few stubborn extremists who do not admit the necessity of preparedness against the possibility of aerial raids, but the great majority of the people are fully aware of the need for taking every possible precaution in this direction. As an example of what the local authorities are doing, it is of interest to note that a county so remote from the heart of the nation as Devon is demonstrating a measure of enterprise and activity which is in keeping with that of the Government, which, with the approval of all wide-awake citizens, has begun large-scale reorganisation and expansion of the Air Force. The authorities in Devonshire are compiling a national emergency register in which the names of all non-combatant sections of the population—that is, men over fifty, as well as women and girls—will be ready to serve their country in time of need. The idea at the back of this plan is that all the spadework shall be done in advance, so that, in the event of an emergency arising, the names of those on the register shall be immediately at the disposal of the appropriate Government departments, together with details of the services which each enrolled person may be able to render. The idea, of course, is not a new one, but the fact that it is being put into force in this specific centre, and is likely to be adopted by others as well, serves to indicate the thorough-going manner in which the country is entering into organised schemes aiming at national security. This, however, is only one aspect of the question; no sphere of activity is being overlooked either by the Government or the various local authorities. Whatever the shortcomings of the past may have been, it is evident that the nation has now been aroused to a full consciousness of present-day needs.

This Explains Empire
Defence

CUT the globe at the twentieth line of longitude to the west of Greenwich Observatory, and what lies to the left of it is no cause for worry, thanks to our friendship with the United States of America.

But from that line eastwards to the far side of New Zealand is a matter of immediate concern to the people of these islands, for the pipe-lines through which is pumped into London are laid across the seas between 20 degrees west and 179 degrees east. They run as far as 60 degrees both north and south of the equator.

These pipe-lines British naval strategy is concerned to preserve; for upon their unimpeded maintenance depends the ease with which tribute and life flow into imperial Britain: gold and diamonds from South Africa, cotton from Egypt, spices from Ceylon, all treasure from India, tin and rubber from Malaya, wool from Australasia; and from all and more of them interest on the loans with which British capitalists dowered them in early and late days.

THE great maritime highways of the world are British highways, policed by the fleet for which the taxpayer is called upon to pay £80,230,000 every year; guarded by the army which costs him £49,281,000 and shadowed by the wings of an air force for which he pays £39,000,000.

Like a A. boxes spread along an arterial road, Britain, in the smash and grab days of her history, spread boxes along the highways to the east.

Their resounding names are milestones in imperial history, and are known to every child almost as soon as its eyes are opened.

Gibraltar, Malta, Suez, Aden, Bombay, Colombo, Trincomali, Singapore and the ports of Australasia are the boxes along the highways to the east.

Along the first of these highways the road bifurcates at Singapore and one part moves northwards to the two great entrepôts of the Far East, Hongkong and Shanghai.

These are the main highways but not the only ones, for lanes lead to Palestine, along the east coast of Africa, up the shores of India to Calcutta and down the rich littoral of Burma.

They turn and twist between the islands of the East Indies and give access to a host of scattered atolls, all of some strategic value, whose names would overflow these columns.

In 1869 Eugénie, Empress of the French, stood in the bows of the first vessel ever to sail from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea; and from that moment the by-pass has been in use.

NOTES OF THE DAY

The Government of Spain, controlled by extremists of the Leftist camp, has endeavoured to obtain assistance from France in suppressing the revolt of the Monarchist, Fascist and other Rightist elements, including the adherents of the Roman Church. The Government of Spain has been refused munitions by the Government of France, following the outcry by the French Rightist press against an anticipated acceptance by M. Blum, the French Prime Minister, of Madrid's invitation to co-operate in defending a Leftist administration, of the same colour and conviction as that in Paris. The French refusal was well advised. In the first place, if France sent assistance of any sort to the Spanish Government, eventually destroyed by the revolt, the allies of the eliminated party would be apt to find themselves in a distinctly embarrassing position, having lost the good-will of a big neighbour. More than that, if the Leftist Government in France were to move to assist Leftist sympathisers in Spain, the development might encourage

Photo-diagram shows vital triangle of Empire defence. Italy's control of Red Sea and Mediterranean means Britain can no longer rely on imperial by-pass of Suez. Future strategy will be based on the triangle's two sides, Capetown at the angle. Italian possessions black; British Empire speckled.

When Disraeli, some few years later, bought for Britain the Suez Canal shares held by a debauched khedive, the by-pass became British.

Until Badoglio rode into Addis Ababa on a white charger it remained a British by-pass; but it is no longer. The shadow of Italian imperial ambitions has darkened the clear waters of the Red Sea; and in its pellucid depths the reflection of the Union Jack is now challenged by the green, white and red banner of imperial Rome.

What had been British strength is now British weakness. A menaced Red Sea means, perhaps, an untenable Mediterranean; for you cannot blow up one part of a by-pass without making the whole of it unfit for traffic.

Outside Home waters British naval strategy was based on the Mediterranean as a highway for sea traffic; but it may well prove that Italian tactics have turned it into a lake from which, in time of trouble, British ships will find it difficult to leave in safety, for between Gibraltar and the Canal is a narrow channel separating Sicily from Tunis. It is guarded in the middle by Italy's fortified island of Pantellaria.

THE times are out of joint for pre-and post-war naval strategy. The Mediterranean, once a flowing tide of ships, may become the focal point in another war.

In such a war the British fleet would suffer damage that might be irreparable. Its danger lies in its comparative immobility; its safety in the impregnable air base which lies at the eastern end of that landlocked sea.

For Palestine is the hope of its salvation. Behind that narrow country lie the immeasurable deserts of biblical antiquity: before it, the sea.

Operating from a base out of range of any hostile navy or air force, the wings of Britain could spread themselves, rise and destroy and then return comparatively undamaged. Under the aegis of those wings now falls the safety of the Suez and of the wealth of Egypt; and under their aegis, in future, a British fleet at that end of the Mediterranean must operate.

This reversal of what we have come to look on as the correct order of nature has been long in arriving, but Mussolini's gamble, which only the timidity of the Admiralty allowed to succeed, has forced the pace; and the question in the Mediterranean is no longer how to ensure a free passage for British ships in time of war, but how to protect the imperial status quo.

Oswald Pirie, South African Minister of Defence, forty-six, stocky, spectacled, warships athletics, and is seen by enemies as future Fascist Dictator. Six years ago was burned in effigy at Johannesburg by vast crowd of natives.

Objective: Position of Capetown in reorientation of Empire Defence made necessary by Italian control of Red Sea.

A blockade of this nature is encouraging to Britain's enemies in the east. The virtual closing of the Suez Canal to British warships not only increases the journey from England to Singapore by over 3,000 miles, but it renders impotent those capital ships required for defensive purposes in the Mediterranean.

At this stage of history Capetown appears on the horizon of the strategic sky and Singapore sinks away. A great naval base is to be built at the former; further work on the latter, it is rumoured, is to be abandoned.

Men who ought to know are talking of an expenditure of £14,000,000, of which the poor British taxpayer is to find half.

And so the old high road comes back into its own; and on the by-pass weeds spring up and it is deserted, except for a policeman or so.

Capetown must build so that if war should come, British ships can move easily to a beleaguered Singapore or an attacked Australasia. Without risk they can tear across the wide spaces of the Indian Ocean; but only with the gravest and most unjustifiable of risks can they move through the Suez and down the scarcely wider Red Sea, a target for bombs, an attraction for mines and submarines.

AND so the immensely complicated strategic game goes on. Air power has altered it and driven warships into the open sea; but air power has not emasculated the battleship, for aeroplanes cannot travel long distances without stopping for a breather and a meal of petrol. Their effective range is short; that of warships is long.

Any enemy aeroplanes that wished to fly east to attack Britain's wealth would have a hard job, for the territory of the world, as mapped at present, shows that we and our potential allies own the fuelling stations along the route.

Let us take one more look at the map; and on it draw what is approximately a right angled triangle whose right angle is at Capetown and the two ends of whose hypotenuse are London and Sydney.

That tells the story: since 1869 British naval strategy has been based along the hypotenuse; Mussolini has compelled us to revert to the other two sides.

And the lesson of it? That because we failed to close the Suez Canal to Mussolini, he has now closed it to us.

Big Game At K. C. C.

Kowloon Cricket Club and C.R.C. (1) will make another effort today to play off their "A" Division tennis league match which has now been twice postponed.

The result of this encounter is bound to have an important bearing on the championship. Both teams are undefeated, and although, on paper at least, C.R.C. appear to be the stronger, the fact that K.C.C. are at home may well turn the result in their favour.

K.C.C. (2) v. C.R.C. (1)

I.R.C. v. U.S.R.C.

H.R.C.C. v. S.C.A.A.

BOMBER TO START COMEBACK

New York, July 20. Joe Louis, faced with the task of rebuilding his prize-fighting reputation, will start August 18 in a bout with Jack Sharkey, Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today.

Jacobs said that the Detroit Negro and Boston's famed Garretts Cob signed to fight 10 rounds in Yankee Stadium, scene of Louis' surprise defeat last month, at the hands of Max Schmeling of Germany, former world's heavyweight champion.

Sharkey, who is beyond the age when sport's experts think he can come back, has reportedly asserted that he could beat either Louis or Schmeling. His comeback attempt in recent weeks has been only mildly successful, however.

FILIPINOS FAIL TO IMPRESS CRITICS IN THEIR TRAINING

Berlin, July 10. While summer heat here forced meet athletes who will compete in the Olympic games to take only light workouts to-day the Filipino team held a lengthy training session before the grand stands which were packed for the final dress rehearsal prior to the opening of the competition.

The performances of the Filipino track and field men indicate that they have much ground to make up if they are to win any Olympic laurels.

Standard Of Play Was Mediocre

(By "Veritas")

A. E. Coates of Craigengower yesterday entered the final of the Hongkong lawn bowls singles championship for the first time in his career when he defeated A. W. Grimmitt, former title-holder by 21 shots to 20, after 23 heads on the Hongkong Football Club green.

It was a close finish and this, plus the grimmess of the match, engendered excitement. For the most part the bowling never arose above mediocrity, and at times, with both players defeated by the queer run of the green, the heads were exceedingly poor.

But it was good fighting bowls, with Coates making what is now being called a "comeback" by coming to the front of the green to wait until 18 heads had been played before he gained the lead for the first time (it was obtained with a perfect "4" probably the best head of the match), and at one stage he was 5-13 in arrears.

GOOD TACTICS

Coates' tactics played a notable part in his "comeback." He began to give flag-high heads—he had three in succession which helped him four shots Grimmitt usually taking too much green for the short draw.

It was a flag-high head which saw Coates lay four magnificent woods on the 18th head; two "rested" the Jack and the others were no more than eight inches away. And this was the turning point of the match. It gave Coates a lead, and although Grimmitt responded well with a three on the 20th, and a single each on the 21st and 22nd heads, he was clearly concerned by the sudden change in fortunes.

Grimmitt chose a long head towards the racetrack for the 23rd, but the forward draw was extremely difficult, the green sending the woods straight through when they should have been turning in steadily; while on the backhand, with anything under a two yards draw, woods were taken sharply across in front of the Jack.

Grimmitt, requiring one shot for the match, and Coates two, tried right-hand-draws for his second and third woods after a short left-hand delivery with his first. But the green behaved rather badly. Coates also took forward and planted a shot wood with his second, though it was not particularly good one.

Grimmitt, with two front woods slightly on the backhand of the Jack, endeavoured to get a wick with his last delivery, but was short, and Coates, though getting a wide green, had just sufficient "lean" to get through for two shots and the match.

It was not a good head, but it was a speculative finish, and Coates, because of his consistency just about deserved to win.

EARLY STAGES

The early stages of the match went completely in favour of Grimmitt, who showed a preference for medium heads and quickly established a lead of six-love on four heads. Coates was bowling both narrow and short, but he came along with a neat three on the fifth head.

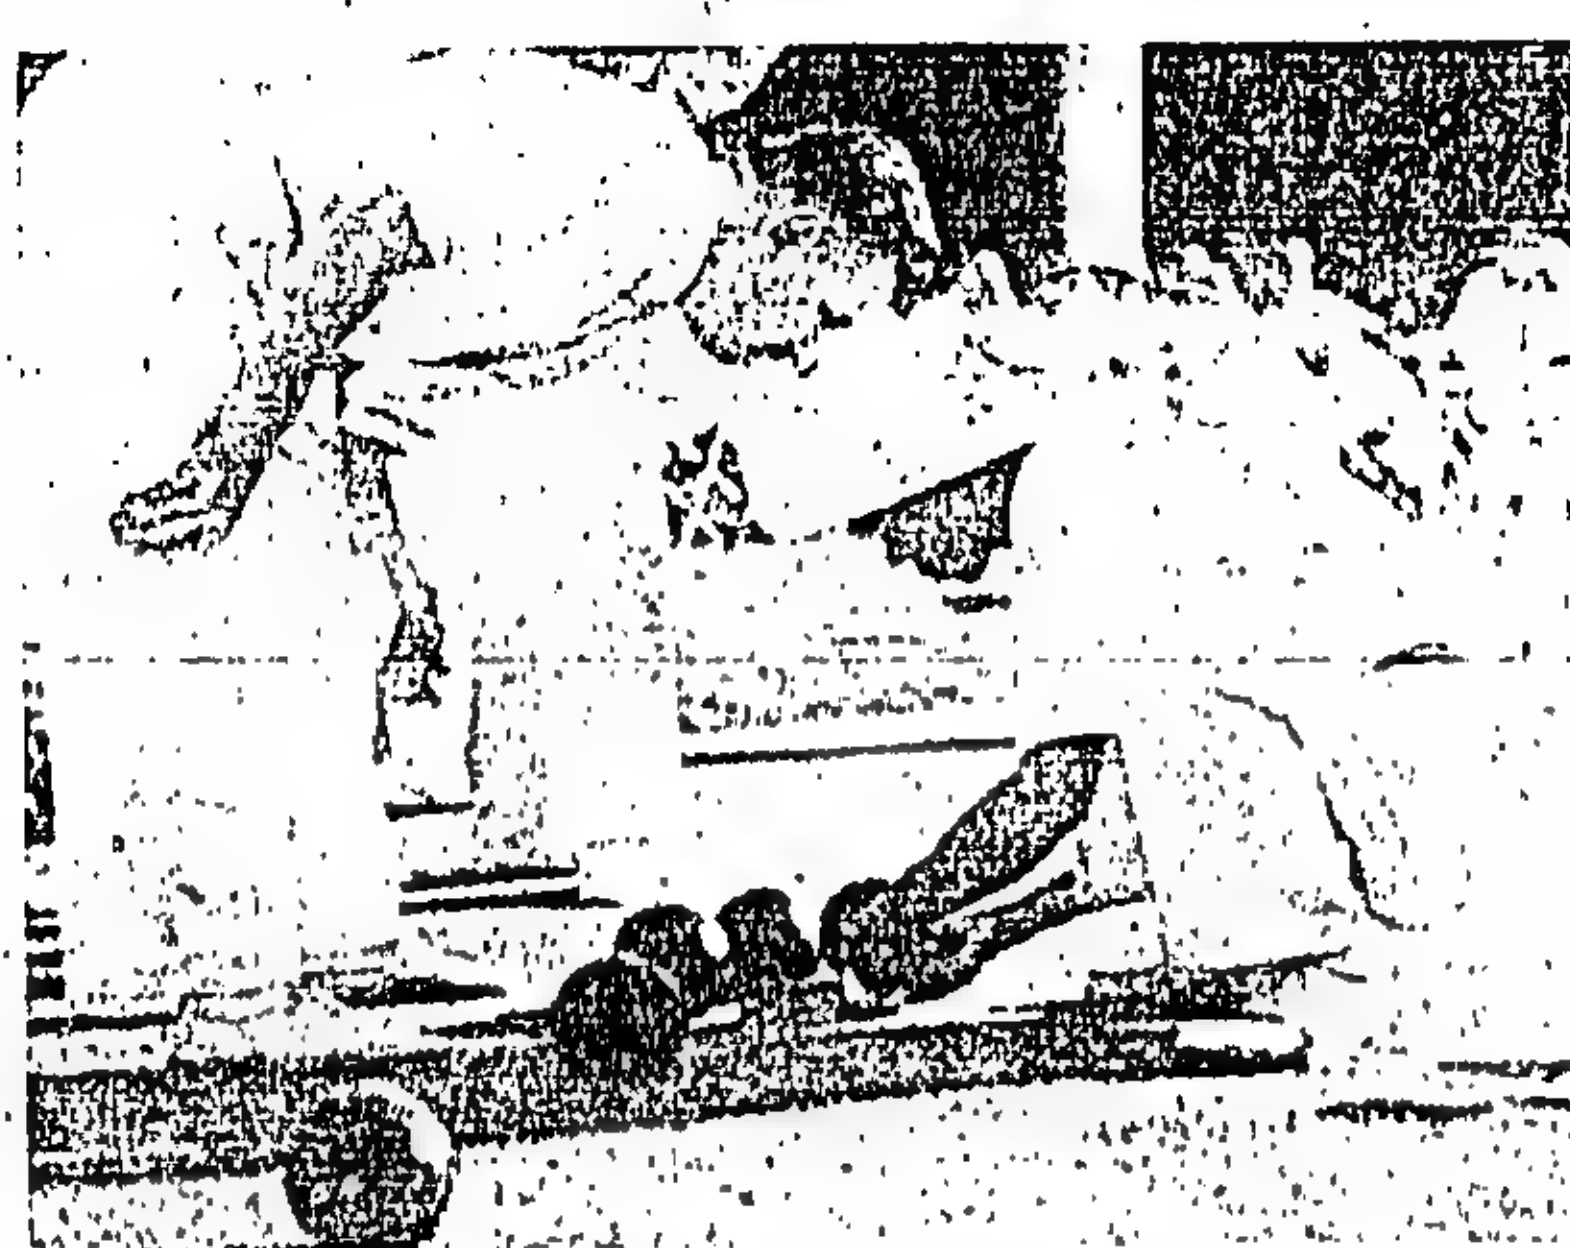

NOT YET BEATEN

But Grimmitt was by no means beaten though the score had changed from 13-5 in his favour to 10-15 for Coates. The ex-title holder replied with a three on the 20th head, though Coates, if he had attempted a backhand shot, wood might have finished the match there and then. A successful delivery on this hand would have assuredly left him lying either two or three. But he preferred a right hand draw and was shockingly short. Thus replied Grimmitt scored again on the 21st and was level pegging at 10-10.

On the 22nd Coates had another fine chance of taking out Grimmitt's shot wood and leaving himself three, but his earlier bug—shortness in length—returned to upset his game and Grimmitt scored another single to lead 20-10.

The standard of bowling was spasmodic. It was rarely outstandingly good. But Grimmitt's early capture of the right green and accurate length put him well above Coates until that player suddenly struck form. Then, as Coates improved, Grimmitt lost touch and from the 11th head onwards was rather disappointing.

PRESENTATION TO DAVIS CUP DONOR

NATIONS SHOW APPRECIATION TO MR. F. DWIGHT DAVIS

London, July 27. The representatives of 23 nations participating in the Davis Cup were among those present this morning when a presentation was made to Mr. Dwight F. Davis, donor of the Davis Cup. The presentation was made by Sir Samuel Hoare, President of the British Lawn Tennis Association, at the Royal Hotel and took the form of a gold repeater watch with the Davis' monogram inscribed on it.—Reuters' Bulletin.

GIFT DESCRIBED

The outside case bears a representation of the Davis Cup in platinum with an inscription in Latin stating that the Cup was presented by Mr. Dwight F. Davis in the year 1900. The other case bears Mr. Davis' monogram, also in platinum, and on the inside cover there is an engraved inscription stating that the watch is presented by the Lawn Tennis Association of the World.

It may be of interest to note that the work of inscribing the platinum is one of extraordinary difficulty and that there are few craftsmen in England who are capable of carrying it out. The work was done by a London expert, and we reproduce on this page half-size illustrations of the two outside cases and the inside dome of the watch, although, of course, these reproductions cannot give an adequate idea of the great beauty of the actual article.

Davis Cup Results So Far

As yet the results in the current Challenge Round of the Davis Cup between Britain and Australia have been:

DOUBLES

Crawford and Quist (Australia) beat G. P. Hughes and C. R. D. Tuckey 6-1, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

SWIMMING CHAMPIONSHIP

Fred Dove won the National 100 yards swimming championship by inches in a tensely thrilling race with the title-holder, Ronald Gabrielsen, at the Empire Pool, Wembley, M. Y. French Williams followed closely on their heels to take third place. There has seldom been a closer struggle. At the turn Dove, Gabrielsen, French Williams, D. Young, and C. Brand touched together, but Gabrielsen made a smart turn and a speedy push-off, which took him a foot in front of his rivals. At 75 yards Brand was travelling strongly and appeared dangerous, but Dove, using his broad shoulders, got in front and stayed there to win his first national title.

act and match at 10-8. The tie therefore rests on to-day's singles results. Britain remains in a very strong position, requiring but one of the last two singles. Austin, who so easily beat Crawford on Saturday meets Quist, while Perry, who, up to a year ago had consistently beaten Crawford, plays his arch-foe once again.

OLD TRAFFORD
INDIA HITS BACK IN FACE OF BIG SCORE

The Old Trafford cricket ground yesterday was the scene of some brilliant cricket when the second Test between England and All-India was resumed in sunny weather, and before 5,000 spectators which later swelled to 10,000.

All-India finished the day batting a second time and being 178 runs in arrears with all wickets intact. England, facing a first innings total of 203 and having scored 173 for 2 overnight, went on to compile 571 for 8 declared. All-India, playing out time, put together 190 without loss. Here are the high spots of the day's play.

Walter Hammond, third out at 273, scored 167 in 190 minutes, hitting 21 boundaries. He reached his 150 in 170 minutes.

Hardstaff of Nottingham compiled 94 in 75 minutes, hitting so hard all round the wicket that he had 15 4's to his credit. His 50 was recorded in an many minutes.

R. W. V. Robins, Middlesex amateur, scored 76 in 75 minutes including 14 boundaries, while Verity, whose batting form this season has been an eye-opener, helped himself to 66 not out in a comparatively sedate innings which lasted 90 minutes.

MUSTAQ ALI. England required only 375 minutes to score 571 runs. V. M. Merchant and Mustaq Ali, batting splendidly for India in their second innings, that before stumps were drawn they had put on 190 runs. After a careful start, which saw them advance to score at ten-ten to 93, they opened out and battled with becoming brilliance.

Mustaq Ali hit with tremendous power once he had judged the pace of the wicket, which had played easily throughout the day and he completed his century in 139 minutes. At the close he had reached 105 having helped himself to 15 boundaries.

Merchant was much more subdued, his contribution to the score being 79. Detailed scores as called by Reuter follow.

PADGHAM
HURRYING

(By Leo Munro)

Open champion Alfred Padgham is a golfer who has arrived without hurrying. "Hasten slowly" might well be his motto.

I cannot remember the time when he was not slow and dignified in movement, deliberate in thought and speech.

But always, since early boyhood, an eager collector of golfing ideas, and in recent months an industrious collector of the game's chief prizes.

He is a quiet conqueror. A tall, handsome man of nearly thirty, who has himself well.

His expression may be too placid, too good-humoured to suggest the fighter.

But note his watchfulness, and you will get the impression of something steadfast in the man.

Watch his play. The swing, which really is a swing, and not a hit. Restrained, with an almost lazy follow-through—but the ball flies an all but incredible distance.

See Padgham on the putting green. You would not suspect delicacy of touch as those great hands take up the club.

REMARKABLE CONTRAST

His putting won the championship at Hoylake. A contrast here between Padgham 1936 and Padgham 1930.

Now he takes the title with aggregate 287, for seventy-two holes. There—the first time he qualified—he tied at 312 for thirty-eight places in the Royal Liverpool course.

A summary of Padgham's progress as an Open championship player advertises his determination to advance from year to year.

Year Course Round 1 2 3 4 Tth. Ptn.
1930 Hoylake 18 20 21 20 311 38
1931 Carnoustie 27 24 27 28 313 40
1932 Prince's 25 22 24 20 292 4
1933 St. Andrews 21 23 24 21 295 5
1934 Sandwich 21 20 25 24 290 2
1935 Muirfield 20 22 24 21 287 2
1936 Hoylake 23 22 21 21 287 1

I first spotted Padgham in the professional match-play championship at Oxhey in 1930, and described him as a discovery.

He has won most of the major tournaments since then—match-play title, German open, Irish open, leading up to his all but clean sweep of the first prizes this year, at Bramshol, Moor Park, Southport and Hoylake.

His game has its critics. One such said to me at Hoylake, "Take away Padgham's putting, and he wouldn't be within streets of Cotton."

But why should we take away Padgham's putting? The rest of his game is very, very good. The putting makes him a super-golfer.

ON the SPOT

SUMMER confusions up visions of sparkling sea and
green countryside,
and all our winter
readers are doubtless enjoying this weekend away from home
and toil and other
familiar things.

I should like to dwell
on the marvellous tonic effect which change of
air and change of scene
bring about, but to-day
our weekly talk is about
other things. Sometimes accidents will happen even in beautiful surroundings, and a little advice on First Aid
may be welcomed.

Cuts and Scratches

The great danger of cuts and scratches is that of getting the wound
infected either from outside sources
or from the skin itself, in whose folds
numerous germs lurk.

The wound in these cases becomes poisoned, suppuration follows, and
this may result in a general septic
infection of the whole limb.

Tiny wounds and scratches should be painted with tincture of iodine,
which kills the germs and prevents
others from entering the wound.

Larger wounds, and especially those

season, particularly if taken after a
heavy meal, often results in fainting
or shock. These troubles may be produced, too, by stopping far too long in the water.

Care should be taken when bathing
to see that at least two hours have passed since the last meal, and the bather should come out of the water immediately she begins to feel at all chilled — after the first shock of entering the water, which, of course, feels a bit cold.

When a shock
symptoms occur the patient's face is always pale, the pulse is rapid and faint and breathing is shallow.

Treatment should be prompt. The patient is placed on her back with her head turned to one side in a sheltered spot as possible. Rugs and coats should cover her for warmth in essential. During the unconscious period
nothing at all must be given by the mouth, because the patient cannot swallow and restoratives may go down
the wrong way.

Lemon Squash

A GLASS of lemon squash after a hot game of tennis is refreshing.

To prepare the essence, boil 1lb. loaf
sugar and 1 pint water together for ten minutes, then leave to cool.

Mix 2oz. citric acid with the juice of
a lemon and add to the sugar syrup,
with the pulp and juice of four lemons.
Mix thoroughly and bottle.

Allow one tablespoonful of the syrup
to a tumbler of cold water.

Restorative Measures

Recovery is usually fairly rapid. The face becomes flushed and covered with perspiration, and, generally, vomiting
follows. This latter symptom is nothing to worry about, but it is important to see that the head is in one

Mrs. Gertrude Wilhelmsen, Puyallup, of Washington, is regarded one of the West's best bets for the Olympic truck team by virtue of her shotput mark of 40 feet 8 inches—bettering Didrikson's mark—and her 128-foot tosses of the discus. She also finds time to keep house
and care for her youngster—but she seems Berlin-bound
this season.

side, otherwise food particles may be
inhaled.

As soon as the patient has ceased
being sick, hot tea or coffee should be
nothing strenuous for the rest of the day.

Strains and sprains are the most common holiday accidents. They should be bound up with cold water
bandages.

If an ankle is sprained out of doors
do not in any circumstances be persuaded to remove boots or shoes. If you do you will never get them on
again because of the swelling.

The bandage in these cases should be applied on the outside of the shoe thighly, and then soaked with cold water. This treatment makes the bandage contract so that it forms a firm
support for the joint.

BY W. N. EWER

After four years the Japanese are still "restoring order" in Manchuria
and the country is being impoverished.

FOR nearly four years now the Japanese have been
"restoring order" in Manchuria.

But order seems to be still very
far from being restored. Banditry
still flourishes. Nor have the anti-Japanese volunteers by any means
given up the struggle.

Here are a few items of Manchurian
news, just come in by mail, for the last week of April.

Wang Teh-lin, the Volunteer leader,
and a small band captured trying to
set fire to the Mukden Aerodrome.

Two hundred bandits raid the village of Yungtsun, 20 miles from Mukden, killing 200 people, and 20 killed. Volunteers,
under Li Hung-Kwong, attack Tungshien and capture ten guns from the Manchukuo troops.

Attack and capture Kuchentung; capture ammunition and supplies near Pailung.

Three hundred red
"Communists" under Yang Hui-ling, routed in a combined air and land attack near Mumeng, in Antung
Province.

While "order" is not
so very much restored,
economic exploitation
goes on vigorously.

Exploitation

SOME of it is constructive.

The new ports of Rashin, Yuki and Sei-
shin are being developed at a great pace.

Railway building is going on at top speed.

There is talk of immense development of cotton, tobacco and silk production.

But side by side with this there is another kind of exploitation which is not developing but impoverishing the
country.

The general complaint is not of the Japanese administrators, but of the flock of small business men and petty
officials who have descended on Manchuria with the one idea of making money quickly and getting home to Japan.

In all the cities both natives and foreigners are being pushed out to make room for the Japanese.

Nothing can be obtained but
the cheapest possible Japanese goods
at the highest possible prices.

Japanese Doubts

MONOPOLIES of every kind are set up. In Harbin, for example, chimney-sweeping
and ice-supply are now monopolies in
the hands of Japanese companies.

All public services are in Japanese
hands; even tram conductors are Japanese.

And—most lucrative and destructive
of all trades—the drug traffic flourishes
and thrives under official protection.

It is not a cheerful outlook for the
South Manchurian Railway the big Tokyo Manchu Railway, the big Sunan Railway, and the big Mukden Railway have been pouring money into Manchuria.

But the chances of these big investments paying seem rather slight; the chances of a big economic crash if the
inflow of capital ceased seem very big.

Already there is a certain nervousness
in Japan itself.

The B.M.R. is now hinting that if its railways and other enterprises are to be maintained, the Japanese must have a say in the management.

GARDEN NOTE

STOUT new stems spring up
from the soil level at the base of blackberries and loganberries,
and tend to crowd this season's fruit-
ing canes. Try to keep them separate, tying the newcomers to a temporary stick.

These fruits are gross feeders, and
need plenty of water, as well as a dose
of fertilizer. A mulch of manure over
the surface is ideal, as this helps to conserve the moisture in the soil.

It can be lightly forked in to the top
inch or two of soil, to avoid an unsightly appearance.

The more you feed these crops now,
gather.

pay there must be a big-scale
Japanese immigration.
At least 5,000,000 immigrants within 20 years is said to be the minimum.

There seems little chance of anything of the sort. Because, though they swarm into the cities for trading and official jobs, the Japanese still show no real inclination to settle on the land in Manchuria.

Three Storey League

WITH September only
three months away,
and the chance of a League Assembly
long before even that, talk of League
reform is everywhere.

In the air. One of the ideas most canvassed at the moment is that of the "three-storey"
League.

First storey, all members: obligation in the case of aggression,
economic sanctions,
but nothing more.

Second storey, groups
of members, who
would agree, with regard to certain "victims," to give all possible material help
— loans, munitions,
etc.

Third storey, groups
who would agree, in specified cases, to come immediately with
all their forces to the assistance of the victim.

Question raised: would the United States come into a "basement," pledged to consultation, but not to any definite
action.

Answer, I think: at present not the least chance of it.

Uniting America

THE draft agenda for
the pan-American
conference has now been completed
and circulated to all the Governments
concerned.

It has six sections: Organisation of peace; Neutrality; Limitation of Armaments; Juridical problems; Economic and intellectual cooperation. A wide enough programme.

And Sections I and V have eight and 13 sub-sections respectively.

There is no specific reference to the League.

But under Section I come four sub-sections which raise the question of relations in Geneva. They are:—

(i) Co-ordination and improvement
of existing international instruments
for the maintenance of peace.

(ii) Examination of additional measures for the maintenance of peace and the settlement of inter-
American disputes.

(iii) Examination of the possibility of creating an inter-American Court of Justice.

(iv) Examination of other measures tending to a closer association of the American Republics and of their relations with other international entities.

All of which just says, "Discussion of the possibility of forming a League of American Nations" without using the embarrassing word.

After Ten Years

IGNACY MOSCICKI, who was elected President of the Polish Republic ten years ago to-day, was a famous physicist and chemist before.

Plasidus had been chosen President.
Exiled from Russia for political activities as a student, he came to London for five years to finish his studies.

His most important work was done
at Fribourg, in Switzerland, between 1897 and 1912, on the production of nitrites and nitric acid from the atmosphere.

The new processes which have revolutionised the manufacture of fertilisers and explosives owe a great deal
to Moscicki's inventions.

And his friends say that he would
far rather get back to chemistry than
go on being President: only he feels
it his duty to stay where he is.

It is learned that His Lordship
Victor, Bishop of Peiping and China,
the head of the Russian Orthodox Mission in China, who is on his way
to Yugo-Slavia, will spend few hours
in Hongkong during the stay of the Lloyd Trieslino m.s. Victoria in port on Thursday. The vessel will arrive
in the morning.

TAKING NO
CHANCES

London, July 27.
Following the King's cancellation of his holiday in France, it was announced to-day that Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, had abandoned his plan to go to Aix-les-Bains on Thursday for a short vacation. He will remain in England.
The coincidence in His Majesty's and the Prime Minister's change of plans, together with Mr. Anthony Eden's emphasis on the complexity of the international situation, led to speculation in Parliamentary circles to-day.

There is a general disposition to connect the change in Mr. Baldwin's plans with the recent tone of Mr.
Eden's speech in the Foreign Affairs debate in the House of Commons, and particularly his statement that he had not exhausted the preoccupations of the Government when he had spoken of the Rhineland, the Danubian, the Mediterranean and other serious problems.

It is generally felt that no risks will be taken in any direction during the next few months. -Reuter.
CONSIDERATION FOR FRANCE

London, July 27.
It was announced from Buckingham Palace to-day that the King has cancelled his arrangements for a holiday on the French Riviera. In the absence of an official statement the newspapers agree in ascribing His Majesty's decision to consideration for the French authorities at a time when their normal responsibilities are much increased by the provision for refugees from the civil conflict across the border in Spain.

It is understood that the matter was the subject of conversation between the King and the French President, when they met on Sunday in connection with the ceremony at Vimy, and there was a reference to the alteration of His Majesty's plans in a telegram which he addressed to President Lebrun thanking the latter for his participation in ceremony.
The King said: "Through to my regret
I am obliged to modify my plans for the immediate future, I wish to assure you of the pleasure with which I contemplate further visits to your hospitable country." -

Governor's Car Involved

BUS DRIVER FINED
FOR RECKLESSNESS

An incident on the afternoon of July 11, involving a car in which His Excellency the Governor was being driven, and a motor bus, was related at the Central Magistracy this morning.
When Pang Ping-lam, driver of bus No. 618, was summoned before Mr. W. Schofield, for driving without due care and caution in Upper Albert Road about 5 p.m.

Acting Inspector S. C. Saunders said the bus was being driven eastwards along Upper Albert Road, and when near the entrance of Government House its speed was about 20 miles an hour. The Governor's car was coming out at a slow speed, and had to stop suddenly at the main entrance. The defendant should have exercised more care in going past the entrance. There was no accident, because the bus driver swerved to his right, and the car stopped before emerging from the grounds proper. The area was controlled. With the military guard out, it was necessary for drivers to exercise more caution. Defendant had a good record. Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $20
on defendant who admitted the offence.

LIFE-SAVING CLASSES

R. A. EXAMINATION
SUCCESSSES

Life-saving instruction in Hongkong is now in full swing. The Indian contingent of the Hongkong Police have quite a number under instruction and should be ready for examination in the near future.

A class of Royal Artillerymen at Stonecutters was examined last night by Sub-Inspector Hunt, R.I.C., local representative of the R.L.S.S., in land and water drills and questions on the apparently drowned.
The whole class carried out each test in a very creditable manner. The class was instructed by Leading Telegraphist Dunlop, of the Wireless Station, Stonecutters, who was congratulated on the very high standard of his class. The undermentioned Artillerymen were successful:—
Gunnery McBride, Crawley, Cope, Garrod, Cartledge, Towson, Howells, Maskell, Dillidge, Gardner, Barker, Goulding, Broughton, Miller, Cameron, Youde, Goodenough, Hutchinson.

A dinner dance will be held on the Open Roof, Repulse Bay Lido, weather permitting, and at Repulse Bay Hotel in event of bad weather, on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

CAMPAGNING FOR PEACE

Mr. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, who, in a House of Commons speech outlining British foreign policy, stated that the Government's aim was reconciliation of the nations of Europe.

BROWNS SURPRISE YANKEES

DEFEATED

New York, July 27.
There was only one game in the National League to-day, in which Pittsburgh Pirates lost further ground, going down before the Brooklyn Dodgers, six to three.
Dodgers hit ten to seven, but committed the only error.

The Cincinnati-New York and Chicago-Philadelphia games were postponed owing to threatening weather.
St. Louis and Boston were not scheduled to play.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
St. Louis Browns are surprising everyone by their recently surprising turn of form. They are upsetting the best team of the League. To-day, the dependable bat of Solters gave the Browns a homer at a crucial period and the club passed the doughty Boston Red Sox with a seven to five total at the finish. Each had seven hits, but Boston had three errors.

Detroit Tigers finally stepped into the winning line and beat the League leaders, New York Yankees, nine to one. "Schoolboy" Rowe held New York to five hits, one of them a home run by Crossett, but that was the only tally. And as it was in a mood requiring vengeance, Rowe whacked an homer on his own account a little later. Detroit had two of the three errors.

Philadelphia scored fifteen runs on twenty-five hits when playing at home against Chicago White Sox. Chicago hit heavily, also, rapping fifteen times for safeties, but only bringing three of the runners home. Chicago had the only error.

Washington and Cleveland had to rest because of wet grounds. -Reuter.

STOWAWAYS IN COURT

TWO GET PRISON SENTENCES

Three stowaways, Edward Zarias,
30, J. Santiago, 17, and George Gladin, 16, all unemployed, were taken off the President Lincoln when she berthed at the Kowloon Wharf on July 26. The boys were charged before Mr. Burgess at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having stowed away and for entering the Colony without valid passports.

Det-Sergeant Russell asked for the expulsion of the first defendant, E.
Zarias. He explained that defendant was found travelling from Hongkong to Manila, and was accordingly brought back. During his stay in the Colony he was under police detention, but left to look for employment while in Hongkong, and returned to Manila on his return from Canton that he smuggled himself on board the President liner.

Zarias, who asked Mr. Burgess to treat him leniently, was sentenced to one month's hard labour, with an expulsion order to follow.

The second defendant, J. Santiago, tried to steal a passage from Shanghai to Manila. He had a previous conviction in Shanghai. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to two months' hard labour.

Sergeant Russell said the third defendant's parents are residing in Hongkong and that they were willing to pay the cost of the boy's passage.
As the Dollar Line accepted this suggestion, he asked for the discharge of the boy.
Gladin was accordingly discharged.

BRITISH SOLDIERS WOUNDED

ARABS' REPLY TO

WITH FLAMING REVOLVERS

Jerusalem, July 27.
Two privates of the Cheshire Regiment were wounded near Tulkarm
to-day.

They challenged three Arabs loitering on the railway, and the latter whipped out revolvers and opened fire.

On the occasion of the hundredth day of the Arab strike, the strike Committee issued a proclamation declaring:

"The day of victory is fast approaching.
The pipe-line from Iraq was damaged for the third time by Arab vandals, and supplies to Haifa are

Ricksha Fare Taken Ill DUMPED ON ROAD BY COOLIE

Payment of a fine of $5, or spending 14 days in gaol as the alternative, was the sentence meted out to Chan Sze, 49, ricksha coolie, who was brought before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on a charge of "failing to complete a journey in which he was engaged."

Sub-Inspector H. E. Rogers stated that defendant had been engaged at Shanghai Street, near Pitt Street, by Chung King Heung, who wished to go to the Sam Lee Boat Building Yard, and agreed to pay the coolie 30 cents for the run. All went smoothly until the ricksha came to a point at Fife Street, near Portland Street, when defendant happened to look back to the occupant of his ricksha. He noticed that the occupant's eyes were closed and soon
was in a faint and unconscious condition. Frightened by the possibility of having the man die in his ricksha, defendant lifted him out of the vehicle and laid him on the road.

While making a hurried get-away,
defendant was seen by Lam On-wai, 21, unemployed, who came on to the scene and grabbed the coolie in an effort to detain him. He argued with the coolie, trying to persuade him to go to the police station and report the matter. Defendant was too frightened to consent, but was finally led with five unconscious men lying in the ricksha, to the police station.
The occupant of the ricksha was taken to hospital on the order of the police authorities.

His Worship expressed to Lam On-wai the gratitude of the police for having aided the course of justice.
He also said that witness's prompt action had very likely been a factor in the saving of the man's life.
Turning to defendant, His Worship severely reprimanded his conduct in trying to cover up what he had done.
He stated that it was his duty to take the man to the hospital, and by this failure to perform his duty he had committed an offence.
